DUCE SUGGESTS BOARD REMOVE HIRED FIGHTERS

Wants Independent Group Sent to Spain To Weed Volunteers from Both Sides.

ASKS IMMEDIATE ACTION

Fascist Powers Demand Recognition of Belligerency Before Withdrawals.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 20—Italy unexpectedly recommended to the non-intervention committee today that an independent commission be sent to Spain to effect withdrawal of foreign troops from both sides of the Spanish war "as soon as possible."

Count Dino Grandi's statement that Italy is ready to collaborate" on this point indicated the more controversial question of belligerent rights to the Spanish combatants might be put into the background temporarily.

The Italian spokesman suggested that a commission be empowered to "arrange for withdrawal of all foreign volunteers" from both sides in Spain.

The commission plan formed part of British proposals made July 14 and also was embodied substantially in the first point of the new Anglo-French plan for getting foreign fighters out of Spain.

Italian sources believed the gesture might at least pave the way for further negotiation and prevent complete collapse of the non-intervention scheme, but its effect on other delegates in the meeting was not learned immediately.

A new deadlock was previously born of the refusal of Italy, Germany and Portugal to withdrawal of foreign warriors from the Spanish conflict before granting of belligerent rights to the warring forces under the banners of the republican government of Valencia and the insurgent regime of Salamanca.

Granting of belligerent rights under international law, as a preface to withdrawal of foreign troops, would favor insurgent generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Soviet Russia was openly opposed to the Fascist bloc on this project. Apparently the big Communist state had the backing of Britain and France although they did not commit themselves.

It seemed that Paris and London preferred to try to dodge any responsibility for the smashup.

The situation was regarded so serious that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden consulted Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain last night and made a full report on the tangled proceedings.

ROSS RANSOM MONEY TO BE WATCHED FOR Public Appeal Goes Out After Payment Fails To Obtain Victim's Release.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 20—Solution of the Charles S. Ross kidnaping hinged largely today upon a nationwide watch for the appearance of $50,000 in ransom money.

A public appeal to be on the lookout for the 5,250 ransom bills went out after federal agents disclosed the kidnapers had double crossed the Ross family by failing to release their wealthy and aged victim.

Serial numbers of the bills were distributed by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation at Washington, who urged the public to assist by reporting receipt of the currency.

The ransom payment consisted of $5,000 in $20 bills, $25,000 in $10 bills, and $10,000 in $5 bills.

Lack of any known communication from the 72-year-old retired manufacturer since he was abducted 25 days ago led investigators to consider a number of theories as to his fate.

There was widespread belief the victim, who suffered from heart disease, died from shock or was slain by his captors to eliminate the risk of being identified by him later. Investigators also feared Ross might still be held captive while the kidnapers make plans for a flight.

The first theory was in line with the belief of some investigators that the Ross case would have a parallel to the Lindbergh kidnaping—with the victim dead before the collection of ransom and the case solved through detection of the ransom money.

YOUTH ADMITS SEX SLAYING

Nabbed by Michigan Police After Assault Killing of Grafton, O., Girl.

OUTLINES CRIME DETAILS

Story Dovetails with Actual Happening; Suspect Believed Sub-Normal.

By The Associated Press

(Picture on Page 5)

ELYRIA, O., Oct. 20 — Sheriff William F. Grall sped to Marshall, Mich., today to bring back a 19-year-old youth, who he said, had confessed to ravishing and killing comely Louise Hornbeck, 19, at Grafton, O., Monday night.

The officer said the youth who gave the name of John William Campbell, 19, of Mt. Sterling, Ill., had been arrested by Marshall police after he had attempted to molest a 15-year-old high school girl in a public park in downtown Marshall.

The arrest culminated a widespread search launched after the girl's battered body was found in a weed-covered lot, where she was struck down on her way home from a dentist's office where she was employed.

Crime Story Told

Sheriff Grall said Michigan officials related that the youth had given full details of the crime, which were corroborated by evidence found at the scene of the killing.

He said he had gathered from his conversations with Sheriff Perl J. Kellay, Calhoun county, Michigan, that the suspect "is not normal mentally."

"We won't know whether he is the man who killed the Grafton girl or not until we bring him here and take him over the ground," Grall asserted.

"Because the details of his story dovetail so neatly, however, it looks as if he were the man we want.

"More than that, we have been impressed with the fact that the description of the youth fitted that of the man seen following the Grafton girl."

Grall said he also was told the suspect fully described the murder victim and his movements in fleeing from Grafton following the assault.

Came From Jersey

The prisoner, Sheriff Kellay at Marshall said, related that he hitch hiked from Merchantsville, N. J. where he had been working.

Miss Hornbeck attended the Mt. Victory public school until the family moved to Ansonia. The Butler and Hornbeck families are widely known throughout the community.

It is believed at Mt. Victory that the body will be returned there for funeral and burial, although the family has made no public notice as yet of funeral arrangements.

CLEVELAND INDIANS GET NEW MANAGER

Oscar Vitt of Newark Club Appointed To Replace Steve O'Neill.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20—President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland baseball club announced today appointment of Oscar Vitt, manager of the Newark club of the International league, as new manager of the Indians, replacing Steve O'Neill. O'Neill becomes a tribe coach, Bradley announced.

Replacement of O'Neill as the Cleveland pilot came after months of uncertainty over his status.

Vitt, 47, managed the New York Yankees' Newark farm club for the last two years, finishing 25½ games ahead of Montreal last season and defeating Columbus in the seven-game little world series after dropping the first three straight.

He formerly played third base with Detroit and Boston in the America league, winding up his major league playing in the 1921 season.

Vitt has managed the Salt Lake City, Hollywood and Oakland baseball clubs, the latter in the 1935 season. He conferred with Bradley today and immediately left for the west coast.

O'Neill, the fighting Irishman from the coal mines of Minooka, Pa., was behind the bat in 1920 when Cleveland won its only American league championship. He had managed Toronto of the International league and Toledo of the American association when his major league career faded. But as a Cleveland manager, his teams disappointed.

In 1936 the Indians fell to the second division for the first time in many years. Last season, the Tribe climbed a notch to finish in fourth.

Bradley announced that the future of George Uhle and Wally Schang, coaches under O'Neill, would be determined by Vitt.

NEW PASTOR NAMED FOR LUTHERAN CHURCH HERE

Rev. M. E. Hollensen of Eaton, O., Accepts Call from Emanuel Church.

Rev. Martin E. Hollensen, of Eaton, O., yesterday formally accepted a call to the pastorate of the Emanuel Lutheran church. The call was given on Oct. 3 and was accepted following a meeting yesterday in Marion with the Emanuel church vestry.

Rev. Hollensen will be installed as pastor on Sunday, Nov. 7, by Rev. James W. Schillinger of Columbus, president of the Ohio district of the American Lutheran church and the Emanuel pastor whom he succeeds. Rev. Schillinger resigned the pastorate to accept the district presidency.

Rev. Hollensen, his wife and 4-year-old daughter, Dorothy Ruth, will move to Marion on Nov. 1 and will occupy the Emanuel parsonage at 243 South Prospect street.

A graduate of Capital university in Columbus in 1928 with an A. B. degree, Rev. Hollensen entered the Capital seminary and received his B. D. degree in 1931. Shortly after his graduation he was ordained and in July of 1931 he was installed as pastor of the Eaton church.

While at Capital he was editor of "The Chimes," "The Spectator" and the senior yearbook, was manager and president of the Men's Glee club, president of the seminary missionary society, and in his senior year played a leading role in the presentation of "Lady Windermere's Fan."

FIREMAN ACCUSED OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

City Employe Arrested After Automobile Collision on South Prospect Street.

Edgar Cook, 43, of 526 West Columbia street, city fireman, was arrested at 11 o'clock last night on a charge of driving while intoxicated after his machine collided with another car at Pleasant and Prospect streets.

The driver of the other car was Miss Florine Watts of near Marion. The car driven by Miss Watts was traveling north on Prospect street and the Cook car south on the same street. They met nearly head-on on the east side of the street, according to the police report.

Cook was injured about the mouth when his face struck the steering wheel as the cars collided but neither Miss Watts nor Robert McCombs of Marion, who was accompanying her, were injured. The damage to the Watts' car was $40.

Cook, a fire truck driver at No. 3, station on East Mark street, is being held in city prison today pending his arraignment in municipal court. He has been a member of the department since 1920.

A coincidence in the accident is that shortly before the crash Miss Watts had left the residence of another city fireman, George C. Haines of 132 West Walnut street, where she had been visiting the Haines family.

A report on the arrest of Cook was given Safety-Service Director John V. Ruth by Fire Chief McFarland this morning but the director has as yet taken no action pending the developments on his arraignment.

STRONG CREDIT ROOSEVELT AIM

President Calls for Continued Improvement in Nation's Banking Machinery.

SILENT ON STOCK PLUNGE

Says Centralized Regulatory Powers Bring Quick Action When Needed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20—President Roosevelt said today the government must improve and coordinate credit and other machinery to "achieve and maintain an enduring prosperity, free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions."

The President, speaking at ceremonies dedicating the new federal reserve building, made no direct reference to the recent tumbling stock market or down swings in business barometers.

A portion of his address however, appeared to give partial answer to those who have blamed administration policies for the stock market plunge.

Cites Numerous Changes

Reciting that the government has made many changes in its monetary and credit machinery in the last few years, Mr. Roosevelt said that "it must continue step by step to make the banking system what it should be."

"We must not complacently suppose that we have achieved perfection," he asserted, adding:

"By the banking and security exchange acts of 1933, 1934 and 1935, the federal reserve system was given increased power to improve banking conditions and to aid the government in combatting practices which were evil in their results.

"Those powers have been concentrated to a greater degree than before in a single public body, so that they can be used promptly and effectively in accordance with the changing needs of the country."

Lauds Glass' Work

The President served notice the administration plans no reversal of its banking policies, asserting: "1937 is not 1913; nor do we want to turn the hands of the clock back."

Lauds Glass' Work

Earlier, the speaker referred to creation of the reserve system in President Wilson's administration. He spoke, too, of "the courageous leadership in the congress for which the senior senator from Virginia, Carter Glass, will always deserve the nation's gratitude."

Glass was instrumental in creation of the reserve system.

Re-emphasizing his often-stressed goal of gaining "for all of our people the greatest attainable measure of economic well-being and the largest degree of economic security and stability," the chief executive continued:

"To advance the country toward this goal is the real mission of the federal reserve system, an agency established by this system alone but without it cannot be operated without the proper functioning of our monetary and credit machinery.

"Your machinery must be steadily perfected and coordinated with all other instruments of government to promote the most productive application of our human and material resources.

"Only in that way can we hope to achieve and maintain an enduring prosperity, free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions.

"Only in that way can our economic system and our democratic institutions endure."

Claims New Deal Craves More Authority While Failing in Exercise of Power Already Held.

WARNS OF DANGERS

Says Government Shake-up Would Place All U. S. Employes Under Thumb of President.

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 20—Alf M. Landon reasserted himself as an active, as well as titular, leader of the Republican party last night in a blunt indictment of the Roosevelt administration as seeking still more power and as a "failure" in the exercise of "too much power" already granted.

The opening sentences of his radio address set up his position with respect to party affairs:

"I have called a meeting (the radio audience) of the 17 million men and women who voted for the Republican ticket last fall. Because I held the honor of being the standard bearer of the cause for which your votes were cast, I wish to suggest ways and means by which we, the minority party, can be of outstanding service to our country."

Silence, "Good Taste"

The 1936 Republican presidential nominee said he had been silent a year because "good taste and good government demand" that an elected official be given opportunity to establish the policies which he promised the voters.

"But now the time has come to act," he said.

Of Mr. Roosevelt himself Landon said he is "not the man who was elected in 1932. It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt is going through the same process that transpired in the life of every man in history who was given too much power. Power feeds on power—today, just as it did in the days of Julius Caesar."

Government reorganization, he quickly added, "has for its main purpose the placing of practically every federal employe under the thumb of the President."

Deplores Broad Powers

"Most of the mistakes he (Roosevelt) has made," Landon said, "have been made because he has been given too much power. What he really needs is less power—a position that will force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties."

The Kansas declared relief had become "a political football. We are morally worse off than we were. When do we go back to work?" Of taxes, he said it's "not just the amount, but the confusion," and of the Constitution, it "works when you give it a chance to work."

He held the Wagner labor relations act "an unworkable, messed-up piece of legislation that will have to be done all over again," but a "step in the right direction."

Labor dealings, he said, are "not only unsatisfactory" but "dangerous." When trouble came Roosevelt "again failed to follow the Constitution. Men were shot and clubbed. And, according to press reports the President shrugged his shoulders. He said it was a local affair. He said, 'a plague on both their houses' and went on another vacation."

Discusses Supreme Court

The Hugo Black supreme court appointment recalled to him that tradition holds that "when a man is to be appointed to an important, non-elective office he shall be submitted to the scrutiny and white light of public hearings."

Of quite recent years, the President's legislative spokesman, looking to far more dangerous than the same tendencies in dealing with domestic matters. Here he does be inclined to go?"

In Washington, the speech was greeted in some observers this possibility of a spirited contest between Landon and Herbert Hoover for active leadership of the Republican party.

The address came in the midst of efforts by the Ohioan president to rally sentiment for a mid-term party convention next year. Landon had been reported cool to the plan and did not mention it last night.

While he was speaking, the national Republican club in New York deferred a vote on unrestricted indorsement of the proposal.

The Republican national committee will meet in Chicago Nov. 3 to vote on holding the unusual convention, which would be a prelude to the 1938 congressional campaign.

(Absent from the session will be George A. Ball, millionaire industrialist, who resigned last night as committeeman from Indiana. The 74-year old committeeman said he could not take part in the campaign "with that spirit and vigor enthusiasm and vigor for.")

Bottle's Contents Not Identified as Same as Those Found in Wagner's Body.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 20—Appearing on cross-examination in the murder trial of Anna Marie Hahn, City Chemist Otto P. Behrer declined today to identify the contents of a bottle found in the Hahn home as "the same" as that found in the vital organs of Jacob Wagner, the alleged victim.

Behrer testified yesterday that the bottle contained a similar poison.

Chief Defense Counsel Joseph H. Hoodin held up the bottle and samples of the viscera and asked:

"Would you say the some substance was in this bottle as in these organs?"

"No, I couldn't say that," Dr. Behrer replied.

Hoodin attempted in vain to obtain a statement from Dr. Behrer that examination of the hair would show the lapsed time since poison was administered.

Pointing to the bottle, he asked: "Would you say that might be a patent medicine?"

The court prevented a reply.

Dr. Behrer testified yesterday that he found eight grains of the poison in Wagner's body per kilogram of material examined, and that ordinarily, "two or three grains" constituted a "lethal dose."

He reiterated today that the amount of poison detectable in a body was "infinitesimal" compared to that disclosed in Wagner's organs.

175 AT MEETING OF FOOD DISTRIBUTORS

Discuss Saturday Closing Hours and Opening of Stores on Sunday.

Approximately 175 persons attended the fish fry and business meeting of the Marion Food Distributors association last night at Druids hall. Officials of the group said it was one of the largest meetings held since the organization of the association last year.

Discussion of the problem of changing hours of Saturday night closing was held with representative shoe dealers, clothiers and department store managers. Although the majority of the dealers seemed in favor of changing the closing hours so that groceries could close at 9 p. m. instead of 9:30, F. R. McDaniel, president, was authorized to name a committee to investigate the problem further before a final decision is attempted, an official said.

A letter from the Ohio Retail Grocers' association dealing with Sunday opening was read. It stated that in Columbus an ordinance is being worked out to prevent stores opening on the Sabbath. Officials of the local association said there are still several stores which are open seven days a week here.

The fish fry was open to members of the association, their employes and their families. Card playing, dancing and orchestra music was included on the program.

There is indication the association will intensify its movement for new members, Carl Campbell, secretary, said.

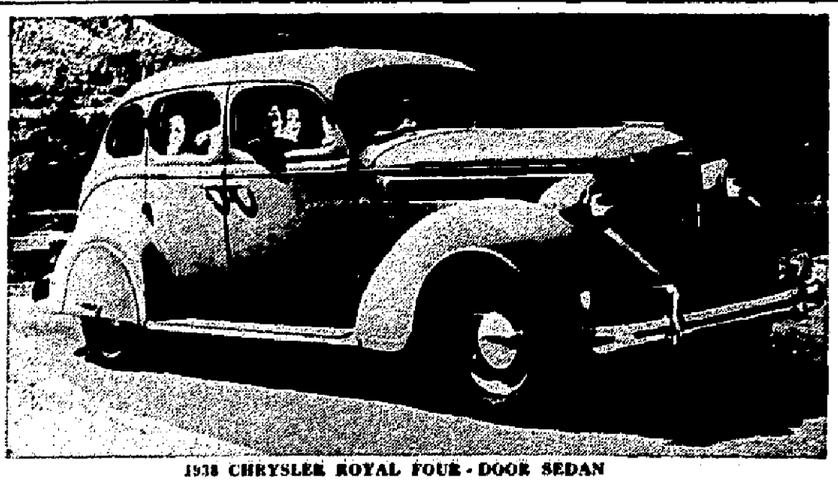
CHANGES MADE IN 1938 CHRYSLER MODELS



1938 CHRYSLER ROYAL FOUR-DOOR SEDAN

Radical changes in appearance, larger and more powerful engines and numerous mechanical improvements feature the two new cars comprising the Chrysler line for 1938, now on display at the Goethe & Welsh Sales and Service Co., at 440 West Center street. The models are again designated as the Chrysler Royal and Imperial, both equipped with airflow construction.

The Chrysler Royal is the company's bid in the low price field. This year the wheelbase is 119 inches instead of 116 on all four models at the local agency. The wheelbase of the Imperial has been raised from 121 to 125 inches on the three models displayed here.

The models in stock now and the prices follow: Imperial—coupe, $1,135; coupe with rumble seat, $1,172; touring sedan, $1,220. Royal—coupe, $930; coupe with rumble seat, $975; touring brougham, $987, and touring sedan, $1,027.

Except for the difference in size the two models are uniform in appearance. The most startling change this year is in the front end treatment.

The Chrysler engine, introduced last year as the Gold Seal on the Royal models has been given larger dimensions on the Imperial. The engine of the Royal has been given one-fourth inch more stroke. Royal engines with standard head develop 95 horsepower and with a special head are rated at 102 horsepower.

A new camshaft with earlier opening and closing of intake valves is also a feature of the Royals. Valve seat inserts of special heat-resisting steel insure perfect seating for a long period.

The new Gold Seal engine for the Imperial has a three-eighth inch longer stroke than last year's. It develops 110 horsepower with the standard head and 115 with a special head.

The net result of engine changes will be improved performance, the manufacturers state. The 1937 Chrysler Royal averaged from 18 to 24 miles on a gallon of gasoline and the performance is expected to be equalled by the 1938 models, Chrysler engineers believe.

The airflow principles incorporated in the models include scientific weight distribution, airflow springing and exceptionally long wheelbase which combine to produce easy and safe riding.

JAPANESE REPULSED SHANGHAI IS TOLD

Reports from Northern Front Tell of Chinese Advance as Enemy Retreats.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20—Shanghai received today the first independent report that Japanese not only are slowed down but are being pushed back on one section of the north China front.

Foreign reports from Tsinan, Shantung capital province, were that provincial troops under Gen Han Fu-chu are making steady advances northward toward Tehchow, near the northern provincial border.

The Japanese about-face was ascribed jointly to intense activity of Chinese guerilla units and assertions that overtures are in progress for a compromise between Japanese and Gen. Han.

In Shanghai a Japanese spokesman declared Japanese troops were digging their way forward against Chinese on the Shanghai front.

United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson made written representations to the Chinese government asking that Chinese warplanes quit flying over the Shanghai international settlement and dropping bombs in foreign areas.

The embassy representations, presented at Nanking, were based on a report by Consul General Clarence E. Gauss, showing 1,990 Chinese and 16 foreigners have been killed in the foreign areas.

Both Chinese and Japanese planes were active in the Shanghai-Nanking area today. Japanese dropped heavy explosives on the Chinese airdrome at Nanking and Chinese raided Japanese lines about Shanghai.

MINISTER-PHYSICIAN VISITS IN DELAWARE

Helped Recover Post-Rogers Bodies After Plane Crash in Alaska.

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Oct. 20—Dr. Henry W. Greist, the minister-physician at Point Barrow, Alaska, who played an important part in the recovery of the bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, is in Delaware on one stop of a tour sponsored by the board of national missions of the Presbyterian church. Dr. and Mrs. Greist are making their headquarters at Malone's tourist camp two miles north of Delaware on Route 23. Last night Dr. Greist spoke at Kenton and tonight he will speak in Westerville.

On furlough at present, Dr. Greist will retire from the assignment at Point Barrow at the end of the furlough next August. For 16 years the minister-physician lived at Point Barrow, the northernmost point in Alaska. In 1921 Dr. Greist founded the Presbyterian hospital at Point Barrow and from that time he and his wife ministered to the medical and spiritual needs of the Eskimos.

When the Rogers-Post plane crashed 15 miles southwest of Point Barrow on Aug. 15, 1935, Dr. Greist was the only person within miles who was capable of preparing the bodies for return to the United States. He took many of the photographs of the wreckage which appeared in newspapers throughout the country.

Dr. and Mrs. Greist will be in Ohio until Oct. 30 when they will turn their trailer-home toward Indiana. During the winter Dr. Greist probably will be a Redpath Chautauqua lecturer. His plans for the future are indefinite but he may reenter medical practice in United States.

County commissioners have approved payment of $400 as full settlement of the suits of Sumner A. Morrison and his wife, Ola Belle, for total damages of $11,260 against the county in connection with an automobile accident, Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. YOUTH ADMITS SEX SLAYING AT GRAFTON to Gary, Ind., where he hoped to get another job. He said he arrived in Grafton Monday night and was eating in a restaurant when he saw the girl go by.

Sheriff Kellay quoted the youth as saying he followed the girl and seized her around the neck from the back, strangled her, dragged her into the bushes and assaulted her and and then struck her on the head with a club.

Kellay then said the youth told him he went to a nearby filling station where he washed the blood off his hands and then hitch hiked to Marshall in two rides.

Arrested Before for Molesting Girls

MARSHALL, Mich., Oct. 20—Sheriff Perl J. Kellay of Calhoun county said today that John William Campbell, 19, held for investigation of the sex slaying of Louise Hornbeck of Grafton, O., told him he had been arrested several times for molesting girls.

Sheriff Kellay quoted Campbell as saying he had been taken into custody in Chicago, Quincy, Ill., and in Wisconsin and also that he had been an inmate of an asylum at Jacksonville, Ill.

The youth, a resident of Mt. Sterling, Ill., was arrested here for grabbing a high school girl in a public park. He waived examination in that case and was taken to the Calhoun county jail where Sheriff Kellay, acting on a hunch, questioned him about the Ohio crime.

Kellay said Campbell admitted it and related details of the Grafton case which made the account appear authentic.

Sheriff William Grall of Lorain, O., reached Marshall this morning with deputies William G. Smith, Emil Kubischke and Anthony Pollock.

Grall said there were minor discrepancies in Campbell's story, including his description of the slain girl and the restaurant where he said he ate in Grafton, but that in the main his statement coincided with known facts.

Informed Campbell had agreed to waive extradition proceedings, the sheriff said he planned to start the return trip this afternoon.

PLANE CRASH BRINGS THREE-SIDED INQUIRY

Bodies Taken Down Mountain Side and Identification Work Starts.

By The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 20—Federal and airlines officials prepared to open three separate investigations into the most disastrous crash in American aviation history as identification of the 19 victims' broken bodies began at Evanston, Wyo., today.

The bodies were taken in wagons over crude mountain roads to Evanston late yesterday. They had been strewn over a wide area when a United Airlines luxury transport rammed into a mountain peak in a terrific storm Sunday night.

Bob Johnson, United Airlines press representative, said the bodies were "tentatively identified" early today. He said the first identified was that of Pilot Earl Woodgerd of Denver.

A federal board appointed by Secretary of Commerce Roper is scheduled to meet here Saturday to investigate the disaster. The U. S. postal department and United Airlines also will conduct their own inquiries.

At the crash scene, postal employes searched minutely through snow and wreckage for the remainder of the 174 pounds of mail carried by the transport. One bag was found intact.

Relatives of the ill-fated sky liner's passengers were arriving at Evanston to claim their dead, but many bodies are so badly mangled identification is not expected to be complete until tonight.

Searchers reached the plane yesterday. Except for the rear fin, the 21-passenger transport was demolished. Bodies lay grotesquely in the snow. Twisted arms and legs protruded from the glistening white. Most of the bodies were thrown clear of the cabin.

The victims were moved slowly down slippery mountain sides by pack trains four miles to a deeply-rutted road leading to Knight, Wyo., 26 miles north of the crash. From Knight the bodies were taken over the highway seven miles to Evanston.

United Airlines officials remained silent as to cause of the crash except to say it was due "to the weather."

EPISCOPALIANS END HARMONIOUS PARLEY

Elevation of Presiding Bishop to Supreme Authority Tops Accomplishments.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20 — Delegates heading homeward from the 52nd triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church described it today as one of the most successful and harmonious in the history of the denomination.

"A wide range of business having world-wide importance to the work of the church was transacted in the house of bishops and house of deputies with a speed and in an atmosphere of harmony rarely equalled," one leader said.

Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, bishop of southern Ohio and host to the convention, asserted he hoped the spirit of "unity and friendship brought to the sessions would be carried back into the life of the church."

The convention's most important accomplishment many felt, was in making the presiding bishop the supreme administrative as well as the spiritual authority of the church.

The presiding bishop, already the spiritual leader, was delegated the administrative power by the amalgamation of his office with that of the presidency of the national council, or board of directors.

Into the position was placed Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker of Richmond, bishop of Virginia and an ecclesiastical and theological liberal. He is eligible to serve six years and succeeds Rt. Rev. James Dewolf Perry of Providence, R. I.

The warmest debate of the 14-day session was precipitated by a proposal to liberalize the marriage and divorce canon, so that a bishop could rule whether a communicant, divorced for any reason, could remarry. The plan was defeated overwhelmingly and a commission was instructed to continue a study of the subject. Under the present law, only a member who is the innocent party in a divorce for adultery may remarry.

City Junior High Title At Stake In Thursday Game

VICTORY WOULD GIVE CHAMPIONSHIP TO CENTRAL GRIDDERS

Vernon Heights Squad Needs Two Wins To Share in Season's Laurels.

Marion's 1937 junior high school football championship will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when teams of Central and Vernon Heights schools clash on the Harding stadium field at 4 o'clock.

Vernon's Auld-coached combination will make its last stand in an attempt to upset the undefeated Central warriors, who need but the one victory to gain an undisputed claim to the current city title. In an opening season encounter Central scored a 13 to 0 win over Vernon, and the uptown team has a slight edge for tomorrow's clash.

Central went on to win over Edison in both meetings with the West Siders, taking the first clash, 13 to 0, and the second, 33 to 0. Tomorrow's game will be the season's finale for the Big Green gridders of Central. A victor would bring them the title and a defeat would drop them no lower than a tie for the championship.

Vernon suffered its only defeat in the inaugural against Central and since that time has displayed considerable improvement in trouncing Edison, 34 to 0. Although outweighed slightly the Vernon team will be battling in a last stand fight. A victory tomorrow and another over Edison in the season's finale next Thursday would give Coach Auld's team a share in the 1937 title.

Last year's champions, Edison, have failed to win a single game this season. The club was wrecked by the advancement of experienced players to the sophomore class at Harding high and Coach Carl E. Brickley has faced a difficult task in rebuilding with green and light material. The team's possibility of successfully defending the city crown went glimmering in their first clash which ended in a 13 to 0 defeat at the hands of Vernon.

Tomorrow's game, in the event of favorable weather, is expected to draw a large crowd of spectators and pupils. Central rooters will be on hand full force with a band and organized cheering section, while Vernon fans likewise will attend en masse. The contest will bring the 1937 junior high schedule to the threshold of the final curtain, with but one contest in the round-robin program to be played.

Harding Favored To Win At Ashland in League-Opening Contest Friday Night

"This looks like Marion's year," is the comment of Ashland scholastic grid followers as they look forward to the Friday night meeting of the teams on their home lot at Ashland College stadium. Ashland victorous over Marion every year since the 1928 season, for the first time conceded the Presidents better than an even break.

Only three regulars, Wicks, Welch and Burns, return from last year's Ashland club, but despite the absence of veteran material the Hilltoppers have shown up well in their two most recent games. Last week Ashland won over Wooster, 7 to 6, and the preceding week held Shelby to a 7-7 tie.

In its opener Ashland won over Loudonville, 13 to 0, later being trampled by Norwalk, 36 to 2, and Galion, 27 to 0. Its record of two victories, two defeats and one tie compares favorably to Marion's five games in which the Cramermen have won three lost one and tied one. Likewise the teams compare well in size, the Marion backfield and line both averaging slightly over the 165-pound mark, while the opposition will average 167 on the line and 153 in the backfield.

The Presidents' heavy advantage over the Friday night opponents will come in the department of experience, the nucleus of Coach Cramer's aggregation being nine returning lettermen. Harding's team, fully capable of running up a heavy score against Ashland, nevertheless will need to be on the alert from the opening whistle to return home victorious.

While Marion and Ashland scrap on the latter's field, Mt. Vernon will be visiting Galion in the conference game that has a great deal of bearing on the current N. C. O. race. Both clubs have won their first two starts, Galion trimming Ashland, 27 to 0, and Bucyrus, 27 to 20, while the Yellow Jackets whipped Shelby, 21 to 0, and Bucyrus, 31 to 0. By winning, the Jackets have only one other formidable barrier in the way of a perfect season. Harding's eleven.

Other games involving N. C. O. teams will find Bucyrus playing a non-league encounter at Fremont Friday night and Shelby nervously attacking the strong Mansfield Tiger outfit, Saturday afternoon on the Richland county field.

Practice for the Harding game at Ashland is to resume tonight, the Presidents having been idle since last Friday. Another brief workout tomorrow afternoon will put the team in shape for its 55-mile trek for the floodlight encounter. A squad of 25 men will embark on a chartered bus at 4:30 Friday afternoon for the game which is set to begin with the kick-off at 7:30 o'clock.

Records of the Ashland-Marion teams through 18 years of competition disclose that Marion has won six, lost 11 and tied one. The scores over that period follow:

1919—Ashland 13,Marion 20.
1920—Marion 0, Ashland 0.
1921—Marion 20, Ashland 7.
1922—Ashland 27, Marion 14.
1923—Marion 36, Ashland 6.
1924—Marion 31, Ashland 0.
1925—Ashland 26, Marion 0.
1926—Ashland 20, Marion 7.
1927—Marion 19, Ashland 6.
1928—Marion 31, Ashland 7.
1929—Ashland 20, Marion 0.
1930—Ashland 7, Marion0.
1931—Ashland 26, Marion 6.
1932—Ashland 14, Marion 6.
1933—Ashland 37, Marion7.
1934—Ashland 33, Marion 0.
1935—Ashland 18, Marion 6.
1936—Ashland 12, Marion 0.

ASHLEY GRIDDERS DEFEAT RICHWOOD

Union County Team's Punt Carried Back of Kicker by Strong Wind.

Special to The Star

RICHWOOD, Oct. 20—Ashley High school scored a 6-2 victory here yesterday afternoon in a football game made difficult for players by a strong wind that made punting and passing dangerous.

One Richwood punt, booted from the Richwood 30-yard line, was caught by the wind and whisked to the Richwood 10-yard line, or 20 yards behind the kicker, and rolled from that point over the Richwood goal line for a touchback.

Richwood scored a safety in the third play of the opening quarter for its only tally. Cramer went through the line on a 50-yard sprint to carry the ball for Ashley's only score.

Each of the contesting teams has two more games this season. LaRue will play at Richwood on Oct. 29 and on Nov. 4 Marysville will play at Richwood. Ashley's remaining games are with Centerburg at Ashley Friday and at Belleville the following Friday. Ashley has won all games this season to date.

The lineup for yesterday's game follows:

Richwood	Pos.	Ashley
Zuspan	LE	Mouser
McAllister	LT	Musgrew

Jordan	C	Bunker
Livingston	RG	Randolph
Hoffman	RT	McClintock
Coder	RE	Breece

BACON INVITED TO CAGE MEETING

Francis Bacon of Marion, president of the Central Ohio Officials association and member of the board of control of the National High School association, both groups concerned with high school sports, has been invited by H. R. Townsend, Ohio high school commissioner, to attend a key meeting on interpretation of basketball rules. It will be held in Columbus, Nov. 3 at the Fort Hayes hotel.

Mr. Bacon said persons attending the state clinic will hold district meetings for the benefit of basketball officials and coaches in their respective districts later in the month. The Marion meeting probably will be held in the Y. M. C. A. with officials and coaches from nearby counties invited to attend, he said.

BIG 10 SPOTLIGHT ON NORTHWESTERN TILT WITH OHIO STATE

Notre Dame Underdog in Game with Navy: Badgers To Meet Pitt.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Writer.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 — Elmer Layden is still trying to prove he was wrong about Notre Dame's football team—and now he hopes he can do it by Saturday.

He admitted back in early September that Irish prospects for a hell-roaring year on the gridiron looked very nice—on the surface. There were lettermen for every position and experienced boys who failed to win monograms a year ago, but Layden insisted that trouble lurked all too close to the surface. He was so right that the Irish will be the second choice when they square off against Navy's stalwarts Saturday at South Bend.

Layden pointed out—to the accompaniment of disbelieving chuckles—that Notre Dame needed a triple-threat back. Failing the appearance of one of those, he said the Irish might squeeze through a murderous schedule with the aid of a top flight passing and running back, which would be the left halfback in Notre Dame's scheme.

It looked as though he had a passer and runner in Jack McCarthy when the Irish trounced Drake. However, it didn't look so much that way after a scoreless tie with Illinois and last week's beating from Carnegie Tech. The Irish "won the statistics" in both games, but the punch wasn't there.

In his search for a top-notch passer, Layden tried Ben Sheridan, a fleet sophomore from Havana, Ill., at left half. Sheridan pitched several successful passes and scored two of the varsity's four touchdowns against the freshmen. Bunny McCormick, the consistant bright spot in the Irish backfield, accounted for the other pair.

Both Northwestern and Ohio State, which collide at Columbus in the Big Ten's five-star special this week, were handicapped by rain yesterday. The Wildcats were forced to settle for a brief dummy scrimmage under the stands. The Buckeyes divided their attention between offense and a study of Northwestern plays.

Not daring to waste a minute of the time left before they leave to battle Pittsburgh Saturday, Wisconsin's Badgers hustled through a heavy workout in rain, wind and sleet. Rain drove Michigan into the field house, while its foe this week, Iowa, was given a long session which included plenty of attention to ball-handling.

Indiana, which meet Cincinnati this week, emphasized blocking. Coach Bo McMillin having found much to criticize in the Hoosiers' downfield path-clearing technique against Illinois. Coach Bernie Bierman continued his search for a left halfback to replace injured Andy Uram, with Harold Van Every getting the call. Purdue, which like Minnesota has an open date this week, was given another day of rest.

Chicago, also idle this week, was let off easy again, but Illinois which goes back to the wars a week from Saturday against Michigan, got down to business on a revised offense. Jay Wardley, out since before the opening game, was at left halfback, indicating Captain Lowell Spurgeon may be shifted back to right half.

GRID WAGERS HIT BY BIG TEN HEAD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 20—Drinking at Big Ten football games has been reduced to a dribble, but the "suckers" who spend their money on pool bets are causing some concern.

The terms "suckers" is the idea of Maj. John L. Griffith, the Big Ten's athletic commissioner. He said that Western conference athletic directors are campaigning against betting on football games, and against the pool of "parlay" system, in particular. He added that what with the odds against anyone being able to pick five or seven winners any given Saturday in an effort to win $8 or $12 for $1, "there can be no question that anyone who bets his money in football pools is a sucker."

CROONER SOOTHES GRIDDERS' NERVES

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 20—Coach Walter Burrell hires a Spanish singer to croon lullabies to his Hillsborough high school football players to offset the pre-game jitters.

He tried it first just before the Plant City game last week. His boys won, 50-0.

"I don't know if the strategy worked or not," he said today "but I do know that the team played steady, relaxed ball from the first whistle."

THREE NEW COACHES UNBEATEN TO DATE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Attracted by lucrative offers or given an opening when their own superiors went elsewhere, some 30 college football coaches began the current season with brand-new jobs as "head man."

Today, with some already past the halfway mark of their first campaign and others just approaching it, only three of the 30-odd starters have survived in the elect—and select—set of those whose teams are unbeaten and untied. Reading in the customary order, they are Ossie Solem of Syracuse, "Hooks" Mylin of Lafayette and George Sauer of New Hampshire.

St. Mary Squad To Play Carey Gridders Friday

St. Mary Parochial High gridders, idle in game competition since early this month, will be playing on a foreign field Friday afternoon when the club invades the home lot of the Carey High school eleven. The Irish team has been holding daily workouts since the last game and was to wind up preparation for the visit to Carey with practice sessions today and Thursday afternoon.

Coach Robert Kelly will lead a squad of 25 players on the trek to Carey. The team will leave Marion at 1 o'clock in private cars and the game is scheduled to get under way at 3 p. m. The host school is widely known for its consistently good grid combinations and this year's edition which the St. Mary club will face is no exception.

Carey is a member of the strong League if Six Nations and has built up considerable prestige on its enviable record this season. The meeting will mark the first engagement of grid teams of the two schools, renewing the athletic rivalry which has been carried on annually on the basketball court. St. Mary is in the midst of its first grid season in 13 years and because of the late start in scheduling games the club was unable to complete a full program.

The game will be the fourth of the year for the Irish and only one other contest remains on the 1937 schedule. St. Mary in previous encounters, held LaRue to a 6-6 tie, and was defeated, 32 to 0 by Tiffin Calvert, and 27 to 0 by Crestline. The final game for the Irish warriors will be played on the home field when Fostoria St. Wendelin comes here Nov. 5.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 — An afternoon along Broadway: Red caps scrambling to tote Joe DiMaggio's bags as he takes off for dear old 'Frisco . . . Mark Hellinger, the columnist, and one of the shrewdest pickers of fight winners in town, visiting his lawyers before leaving for Hollywood to become a movie exec . . . A famous world's boxing champion and his manager teeing off for Philadelphia in the smoke of a day coach.

Nine out of nine, 90 cart wheels, and so on . . . Try and beat it, just once . . . Football writers streaming out of the Lincoln after their weekly luncheon.

Lou Little, Columbia, and Chick Meehan, Manhattan, all but stop traffic as Little diagrams a honey of a play on the back of an old envelope . . . Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants, buying a new fall lid at one of those exclusive places . . . Jack Dempsey, freshly shaved and manicured, coming out of a tonsorial emporium near 50th street . . . Joe Jacobs, the fight manager, looking like the "Wreck of the Hesperus" heading full speed for a Turkish bath.

English Outdo Americans in Sports Wagers

By GAYLE TALBOT
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 — "You think the people in this country gamble? Haw! Haw!"

The man who leaned back in his 50-foot suite in the Ritz-Superba and laughed way down deep was General A. C. Critchley, the millionaire czar of England's greyhound racing industry.

"Why," he said, controlling his mirth, "do you know how much will be bet on the totalizator (pari-mutuel) alone at my eight tracks this year? About ten million pounds."

(Editor's note—That's $50,000,000.)

"And what, general, do you get out of that?" he was asked.

"Oh, we take only six per cent," he said, airily, "but of course we charge an admission price, too, about 60 cents a head, and the average attendance for 104 nights at White City, my biggest track, this season was a little over 20,000."

So you get an idea why the general, who came out of the army to introduce hound racing to England in 1926, feels like laughing most of the time.

"It's a great thing for the people," he observed with a twinkle. "The English people are crazier about gambling than any in the world. Everybody's got to bet on something every day. The dogs give them a splendid outlet. Why, if it wasn't for the dogs they might be gambling on the stock market, and America knows what a bad thing that is!"

He's dead right about the English liking to "have their bob down" on something. Anyone who has lived in England knows that by high noon you can't find a chambermaid who doesn't have a sixpence or a shilling bet on a horse at some track. And, come evening, they go to the dogs.

"Where the money comes from I don't know, but the average wager at all the tracks in England is approximately 55 shillings ($14.50), and at White City it has averaged 69 shillings for months," Critchley said.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Oct. 21

A DAY of high adventure and memorable events is forecast from the very interesting lunar positions. All the forces and faculties will be found at high tension, probably in putting over important programs or grasping important opportunities of major significance in shaping the future, its good fortune and destiny. These momentous developments call for new environs, associations and interests, with travel and change having a more or less disturbed reaction on income or domestic relations.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of memorable events in expanding the fortunes and enhancing power, prestige and popularity. All should come through travel and change, with opportunity for sudden and surprising adventures upon the goal of heart's desire.

A child born on this day may have energetic, forceful, ambitious traits, with much originality and genius, as well as an expansive, noble and benevolent nature, bespeaking a life of happiness and adventure.

Love is the emblem of eternity: it confounds all notion of time, annihilates all memory of a beginning, all fear of an end.—Madame de Stael.

STOCKS JUMP 1 TO 4 POINTS

Hesitation on Part of U. S. Steel Causes Concern in Market Circles.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 — Wall Street cast out fear today and whirled the stock market up 1 to 4 or more points.

A shadow across its bitter sentiment, none the less, was the action of U. S Steel which was late in joining the rally and then wavered

Trading was more orderly than Tuesday, although a burst of activity in early dealings put the ticker tape about six minutes behind the market. It caught up by mid-day.

Confusing to traders, financial men said, were reports on the character of buying. Some said it came from strong Wall Street interests, others disagreed.

Sterling performers much of the time were General Motors, Goodyear, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Case du Pont, American Telephone, Western Union, American Smelting, American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio and Union Carbide.

Grains rallied Cotton was steady. Bonds improved.

Around board-rooms news tickers were eagerly scanned for hints of the attitude of official Washington toward the recent upheaval.

Consensus was that now the market had regained its poise, neither the securities and exchange commission nor the administration would soon shift ground on the "hands-off" policy Freely discussed was the possibility that the break might prompt Washington to reexamine tax laws relating to both stock deals and general business for possible action by congress at its Nov. 15 session.

A sharp split of opinion on the nearby future of the market was noted in financial circles. The majority seemed to feel yesterday's trading gave the market a rather thorough shaking out.

On the other hand, dissenters said they thought the downswing had not yet been completed.

Another view—that there would be no sustained rush for so-called "bargain" issues—was based on the idea that the market's collapse in itself would tend to slow general business and whittle profits down

At the start Wall Street men insisted involuntary liquidation and not values had played the important part in yesterday's collapse of prices.

It was also noted that while industrial issues had showed the greatest slashback, this group had pitched down more sharply than rails or utilities.

The Tuesday afternoon rally, it was said by usually well-informed brokers, resulted from demand from so-called "bargain hunters" [illegible] stocks with funds available to buy back their own shares.

The industrial background for the market was uninspiring, analysts said. They noted the report of "Iron Age" which said there was "no assurance" next week might not bring another drop in steel production.

WHEAT PRICES JUMP 3-CENT MAXIMUM

5-Cent Upturn at Winnipeg and Stock Rally Helps Grain Prices.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 20—Winnipeg wheat market jumps of five cents a bushel did much to hoist Chicago wheat prices late today, together with upturns of securities.

Export purchase of North American wheat were estimated as high as 2,000,000 bushels.

The Chicago wheat market rose to three cents maximum gain, with trading on a broad scale, but brisk profit taking caused reactions at the last from the day's top level.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1¾-2¼ cents above yesterday's finish, Dec. 99⅜-⅝, May 99⅞-1.00, corn unchanged to ¾ higher, Dec 59¼-⅜, May 61-61⅛, and oats ⅛-⅜ up.

Mrs. Anna McCormick Named President at Closing Session of Convention Here.

Mrs. Anna McCormick of Kenton was elected president of District No. 2, of the auxiliaries to the United Spanish War Veterans at yesterday's afternoon session of a one-day meeting of the organization, held in the Elks' hall here.

Elected with her are Mrs. Princes Wood of Urbana, a member of the Troy auxiliary, senior vice president, Mrs. Lottie Newkirk of Springfield, junior vice president, Mrs. Pearl Brewer of Upper Sandusky, chaplain. The newly-elected president appointed Mrs. Esta McGinnis of Kenton, secretary, and Mrs. Rose Pool of Kenton, treasurer. Kenton was selected for the next annual meeting to be held in October 1938.

The newly-elected and newly-appointed officers were installed by Mrs. Eva Buchanan of Canton, department president. Appointed to serve on the by-laws committee this year by the retiring president are Mrs. Emma Carnes of Springfield, Mrs. Esta McGinnis of Kenton and Mrs. Rosa Wood of Lima.

RICHWOOD MAN HELD IN THEFT

Prospect Automobile Involved in Complications Resulting from Alleged Theft.

Medford Eugene Marvin, 20, of Richwood was being held in city prison today awaiting a possible charge of transporting a stolen automobile across a state line, a federal offense, police reported. Police said he signed a statement, confessing to the theft of an auto belonging to A. A. Coder at a Prospect garage and to a series of other transactions which took him from here to Miami, Fla., since Oct. 1.

He was questioned last night after he was brought to the police station by Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis from Richwood where he had been arrested by the marshal on a warrant filed shortly after the car was reported stolen. Assisting in the questioning was Police Capt. Ora DeWees.

Assisted by Police

Marvin told police he even had the assistance of southern police officers in one transaction.

He said he first bought a car of the same make as the Coder automobile at Richwood, drove it a while then traded it in for a car of another make, keeping the receipts for the first car, however. He went to Prospect on Oct. 1, left his luggage at a filling station near where the Coder car was parked and picked up the automobile, police said. He obtained his luggage from the filling station on the way back, he said. The next step was to drive to Marion and haul his second automobile to a junkyard where he sold it for $8, meanwhile keeping his receipts for the first car which he had purchased legally in Richwood.

In the Coder auto with $8 in his pocket he started for the south, he told officers.

Sold Car In Tennesee

Marvin said he went through Covington, and ended at Hapeville, Ga., where he left the car temporarily at police headquarters for safekeeping and hitch-hiked to Miami where relatives lived. He returned a few days later, obtained the car and drove to Dayton, Tenn., where he sold it for $30. He said the sheriff at Dayton aided him in making the sale to a local merchant. He had only the receipts for his first car, which was of the same make as the Coder car, to establish title to the Coder car, but it was apparently enough to satisfy the sheriff, Deputy Willis said.

From Dayton with his $30, Marvin said he took a bus to Richwood. He was apprehended by the marshal immediately on his return yesterday.

Deputy Willis said Marvin probably will be held for a few days on the federal charge pending further investigation of his story, Federal authorities had not been notified at noon, he said.

COMPLETE TEXT OF LANDON ADDRESS

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 20—Following is the text of a radio address last night by Alf M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee.

I have called a meeting of the seventeen million men and women who voted for the Republican ticket last fall. I have taken it upon myself to call this meeting because I need the support of being the standard bearer of the cause for which your votes were cast.

I want to suggest ways and means by which we, the minority party, can be of outstanding service to our country. That demands unity in our party, the laying aside of all petty differences and all personal feelings. Of course, in every great party there are those who differ on details, plans and procedure, but these fade to insignificance under the shadow of the growing threat to our republic.

This major issue is so great that it dwarfs all minor differences and transcends party labels. The challenge to our country today is that citizens lay aside all personal, factional and party prejudices and join in the fight to preserve the republic.

Through the modern miracle of radio it is possible for us to assemble in one great gathering, even though we be spread from one end of the nation to the other. And so I am using this vehicle to discuss informally with you two events of great importance.

ASKED WHY HE REMAINS SILENT

But first, let me digress for a moment to review some of the circumstances leading up to these events which so vitally affect the lives of all of us.

During the past months I have received hundreds and thousands of letters earnestly inquiring why I have remained silent so long. I would like to take a moment to tell you why.

First, I believe that under normal conditions, when a man has been elected to public office, good taste and good government demand that we give him free rein to establish those policies which he promised the voters in order to secure their votes. Frankly, I had hoped that after election we might consolidate the gains this country had made in a new vision of civic righteousness.

Last December, after election, I called on the President in Washington and told him that I wished to do my part to create a spirit of harmony and solidarity among us as a people.

REFERS TO PRESIDENT'S COURT CONTROL PLAN

Then, suddenly, last February, without warning, the President made an attempt to control the decisions of the supreme court of the United States. Just at the time when we were trying to heal the scars of class consciousness, just at the time when we hoped a world torn by war and threats of war, would feel that we were a country at peace at home we injected a bitter party issue that struck at the nation in its foundations.

But on whom I deem responsibility I left it my patriotic duty to do nothing which would give anyone an opportunity to make a partisan issue out of this great crisis.

But now the time has come to act.

In a recent speech Mr. Roosevelt stated that progress lags in this country. He said that the lawyers of our country and the Constitution are responsible. I agree with Mr. Roosevelt that progress lags. I think all of you agree that progress lags.

ASKS WHY PROGRESS LAGS IN NATION

That makes it unanimous so one of the outstanding questions in America today is "Why does progress lag?"

The President has said that we must accept one of two alternatives. We must take his personal form of government—we must give him more and more power. We must coerce congress. We must submerge the Supreme court. We must strike down anyone who raises a voice of objection to the way he does things.

We must do all these things or else go back to the old order of things—back to manipulation by "malefactors of great wealth" back to sweat shops, back to starvation wages. Of course, if people believe that we must either have a one-man government or social and economic chaos, there is no question as to what their choice is going to be.

The manner in which Mr. Roosevelt puts the question reminds me of the lawyer who said to a witness, "Have you stopped beating your wife? Answer yes or no."

The real question facing this country today is "Why do we lag in social progress?"

BLAMES ROOSEVELT FOR SLOW UPTURN

I am going to tell you why I believe social progress lags, and I believe I can prove it to you beyond all question of doubt.

The real reason why progress has lagged in America during the last four and one-half years is the failure of the President of the United States to follow our constitutional method of government and his failure as an administrator.

The President says that constitutional methods are too slow—it takes too long to do things in the way the Constitution prescribes. But, I submit that if we had followed constitutional methods we would have made many times as much progress as we have made during Mr. Roosevelt's administration.

I would like to point out that Mr. Roosevelt's career as President divides itself into two parts. The first phase of his career deals with the first few months when he was in office from March, 1933, to July, 1933.

During those few months he performed commendable service. He rose to the emergency with emergency action. He fed the hungry—he sheltered the homeless—he replaced fear with confidence and hope.

REFORM REQUIRES DIFFERENT TECHNIQUE

Then came the second period. The period of working out a far-reaching long range program of social reform. This was a different kind of job. This required a different type of ability. This was a job which required quiet, and painstaking work.

During the first four months of Mr. Roosevelt's administration industrial production rose 22 per cent. Things began to hum. Industry was picking up. People were regaining their confidence.

Then came Mr. Roosevelt's first important piece of supposedly temporary social legislation namely the NRA. What happened? Progress stopped. We began to slide back. We lost most of what we had gained. And this has been repeated many times.

Now, as I have said the lag in social progress is due to Mr. Roosevelt's failure to follow constitutional methods. Let me dwell on this point for just a moment because it may clarify our entire present situation.

Under our constitutional method the President makes recommendations to congress. He turns over the drafting of legislation to the legislators. Members of congress investigate all phases thoroughly. They hold public hearings. They allow almost every one who is interested to come in and have his say. They discuss the pitfalls, the loopholes, all the things that may go wrong. They listen particularly to the opposition—to the people who don't want the legislation.

SAYS ROOSEVELT WANTS SILENT OPPOSITION

Incidentally, this is a phase that Mr. Roosevelt does not seem to understand. He does not want to let the opposition talk.

But if you ask any man who understands drafting legislation, he will tell you that the opposition is your biggest help. They tell you all the things that are wrong. They tell you all the reasons why it won't work. They give you the information that enables you to plug up the loopholes, and draft a law that will work after it is passed.

Now this may seem a slow, tiresome method, in terms of weeks or months, but if you look back over a period of four and one-half years, it would have been very rapid indeed, if through that method we had obtained some legislation that was workable.

But what did Mr. Roosevelt do? He refused to call in able legislators with years of experience. He turned drafting of the legislation over to some college sophomores. He handed it to congress in a package and said in effect: "Pass it this way without crossing a 't' or dotting an 'i.'"

For example: When the NRA was passed his avowed purposes met with approval. But the NRA did not work. As everyone knows, it was a miserable failure. Don't take my word alone for this. Ask Mr. Roosevelt himself. He admits that it failed but excuses it all on the basis that it was well-intended.

Yet, despite the fact that NRA did not work in practice, Mr. Roosevelt continues to insist upon adoption of its theory in one form or another, thus, making the same mistake over and over again.

The Social Security Act is another example of the same policy. It is well-intended. It is something that is necessary in our country. There are many men who have studied this problem for years. Practically everyone of them disagreed, not with the idea but with the form Mr. Roosevelt was jamming through. For social security is at least one thing in which all citizens should be treated equally. The present law does not do so. It will be changed to correct its errors when it is dealt with intelligently.

DECLARES ROOSEVELT IGNORED CONSTITUTION

This is necessary because Mr. Roosevelt failed to follow constitutional procedure in drafting it.

Let us next consider the question of relief. I do not need to tell you that relief has been made a political football. You have seen examples all around you.

Unemployment was our biggest problem when Mr. Roosevelt came into office in 1933. It is still our biggest problem. I believe we are morally worse off now than we were then because at that time everyone at least wanted to work if he could find a job.

The present policy of relief may be all right for those who want to stay on relief, but to the self-respecting man there can be only one question. When do we go back to work?

There is another situation in America today which is holding back industrial recovery perhaps more than any one single thing, and that is taxes. Not just the amount of taxes, but the confusion over taxes. No one knows from one year to the next what is going to happen. How can the country go ahead under such conditions?

Isn't it time, instead of jaunting across the country, that someone stayed home long enough to work out a program of tax legislation that would not have to be changed every year?

CALLED SOCIAL SECURITY MESSED-UP LEGISLATION

Ladies and gentlemen, I think we are all glad to find a growing sentiment that the Constitution works when you give it a chance to work. I believe you must be realizing by now that our good old Constitution, instead of being a horse and buggy, is a roaring motor car compared to the progress we have been making.

Now, I would like to make a prediction — prediction about the Wagner Labor Act. Again, "his heart may be in the right place." Again, his intentions were the best in the world. But again constitutional procedure was not followed.

And I want to make this prediction. That once more you will find an unworkable, messed-up piece of legislation that will have to be done all over again.

True, it is a step in the right direction. It is a move in the direction of collective bargaining. Despite its present weaknesses and failings, we should place our feet squarely upon the act. The wisdom and fairness of the people will eventually bring about a modification so that justice and equality of all rights, including that of the public, will be recognized.

But at the present time, there are many lawyers in this country (not corporation lawyers, but labor lawyers) who will tell you that they have already found so many holes in it that it looks like a sieve. Here, again, a worthy cause will be seriously hurt if it is not corrected immediately.

CLAIMS LABOR ITSELF OPPOSES WAGNER LAW

Incidentally, I suppose next week, I will be accused by the administration of being anti-labor because I dared to criticize the Wagner act. But, if I am thus accused, I will have plenty of company, for our recognized labor leaders are criticizing the operation of the act.

Mr. Roosevelt's policies in dealing with labor problems have not only been unsatisfactory, they have been dangerous. It is his specific duty to maintain order when local authorities do not do so. It is his duty to protect the working man. It is his duty to protect property.

But when trouble came, he again failed to follow the Constitution. He failed to protect either the men or the property. Of course, the property can be restored.

But the deplorable thing was, he did not protect human life. Men were shot and clubbed. And, according to press reports the President shrugged his shoulders. He said it was a local affair. He said "A plague on both their houses," and went on another vacation.

I have given you the basic reason for the lag of social progress in our country—I have given you numerous examples of legislation, each of which had its heart in the right place, but all of which will have to be done over again because constitutional procedure was not followed.

Now I want to give you an example of what happens when a piece of social legislation is drafted according to constitutional procedure by men who really understand the art of drafting legislation.

About the year 1905 New York state took up the question of revising insurance laws for the protection of insurance companies and the protection of policyholders. A certain small group of men attacked the problem. And after months of arduous toil (it may have seemed awfully long at the time) they worked out a program of legislative reform. That law is still in effect with only slight modifications. The same basic law has been adopted by many other states.

Twenty-five years later our country was struck by the greatest depression in the memory of living man. Those insurance companies, incorporated in states which had drafted similar laws, represented the one investment of the average man that stood up.

There is one man in the United States to whom we can be thankful as much as to anyone else for this great piece of social legislation that stood the test of a generation, and that man is Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. It was Chief Justice Hughes heading an investigation who made recommendations from which our sound insurance policy was built.

DEPLORES LACK OF BLACK SCRUTINY

But there is another tradition in which our constitutional form of government, which holds that when a man is to be appointed to an important, non-executive office he shall be submitted to the scrutiny and white light of public hearings. The spirit of our Constitution, like our marriage ceremony, states that if anyone has reason to know why a man should not be appointed to a public office, "let him come forward and speak."

I am referring to Justice Hugo Black.

I think it is fitting to refer to this because it is another case in which constitutional procedure was ignored. There was a demand for public hearing, not only on the part of private citizens, but by United States senators. But the administration used all its mighty power to prevent such public hearings—to prevent the operation of our constitutional methods of government.

Now, regardless of what side you take in this case, I believe everyone agrees that if the Constitution had been followed, all of the information concerning Mr. Black would have been presented to the American public before Mr. Black was confirmed.

This is one of the important incidents to which I referred. I think it illustrates graphically that the Constitution does work when you give it a chance to work.

FEARS MISTAKE MAY BRING WAR

And now I come to the second point of tremendous importance to our country; the second point which I said I wanted to discuss with you this evening. I have pointed out the lag in social progress which has been caused by failure to follow the spirit of our Constitution. These mistakes have been costly. They have set us back repeatedly, but they can be corrected.

Now, however, we are faced with a situation where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war. The President's impulsive quarterbacking, his readiness to assume the responsibility of a one-man government in international affairs, is far more dangerous than the same tendencies in dealing with domestic matters.

Rightly, we may ask the question the world is asking. How far does he intend to go?

In a recent declaration of his international policy, Mr. Roosevelt said that if the rest of the world is at war quote "let no one imagine America can escape peacefully."

He spoke of quarantines, which mean either economic sanctions or blockade. Our experience with Italy has proven the ineffectiveness of economic sanctions and blockade means war. The statement that America cannot escape peacefully when the rest of the world is at war sounds just like what we were told in 1917.

By the time the special session of congress convenes it is to be hoped the President will have thought out what he proposes to do. Close observers have increasing doubts if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion.

Moreover, congress adopted a neutrality act at the last session. The President took it upon himself to repeal the principle of the act. Now, the job for the congress will be to decide whether the President's own policy is to be followed or whether we are to adhere to the policies which the last congress adopted.

I am not surprised that the American people have been willing to grasp at anything that might appear to be new and different. We must remember that it is hard to think straight on an empty stomach. We must remember that when you are cold and hungry and you don't know where your next meal is coming from, you can't become very much interested in abstract principles of government.

CLAIMS CONSTITUTION IS VERY PRACTICAL

But now we have had ample time to find out how some of the new theories are working. We have had time to appraise and that social progress would have been years ahead today if we had followed constitutional methods during the last four and one-half years.

I do not believe in the Constitution because I think it is sacred. I reverence it because it is so intensely practical — because it works when you give it a chance to work.

We have heard too much lately about liberty and freedom as something belonging to the mind and to the soul. Liberty and freedom, after all, are merely means to an end.

The four great scourges of the average man are unemployment, sickness, accident and penniless old age. Unless liberty and freedom can help us overcome them, liberty and freedom are nothing but empty phrases.

The liberty and freedom for which our forefathers fought meant something concrete, tangible and immediately beneficial. Today it must mean something just as definite to us if we are to fight for its preservation.

SAYS ALL SHOULD BE ABLE TO WORK

Liberty and freedom should enable all who want to work to get good jobs at good wages.

Liberty and freedom should mean that men and women have decent hours of work and satisfactory working conditions.

Liberty and freedom should mean that a man has leisure to spend with his wife and children and the right to an old age of peace and comfort.

Freedom must mean that with reasonable effort a man can acquire these things as a matter of right and not because some kind-hearted employer is willing to let him have them.

Liberty and freedom should mean a fair distribution of the rewards of production and should prevent an unhealthy concentration of wealth and economic power in individual hands or government.

Liberty and freedom should mean that a man may have the opportunity to acquire possessions of his own, business of his own, and that the corner grocer or the little factory worker will not be discriminated against, either by great privileged competitors or by government.

Liberty and freedom should mean the right to a fair earning power and a decent standard of living to the farmer.

RIGHT TO CRITICIZE FOES DEMANDED

Liberty and freedom should mean the right to support a government which provides the opportunity to happiness and economic security and the free choice to criticize or oppose it if a man does not agree with it.

And of course, liberty and freedom must mean the opportunity to worship as one's conscience dictates, and the right to a fair trial.

This is the kind of liberty and freedom that you and I and the Republican party of today stand for. If our party did not stand for these things, you and I would not want to be Republicans.

But there is one additional feature that distinguishes us. We believe that we can solve our problems as free men under a constitutional government, in which we have a voice in the solution of our problems.

We do not believe we are helpless, incompetent and unable to solve our own problems. We do not believe we must turn our problems over to any one man to tell us what we must do in order to be wise and competent.

We do not believe that it is necessary to give up what we already have in order to gain additional things we want.

ROOSEVELT CALLED A CHANGED MAN

During the first few months of Mr. Roosevelt's administration, he awakened a new social conscience. I was in sincere sympathy and agreement with many of the purposes set forth.

But I now must say something that I regret to admit. Mr. Roosevelt is a changed man. He is not the man who was elected in 1932.

It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt is going through the same process that transpired in the life of every man in history who was given too much power. Power "goes on power"—today, just as it did in the days of Julius Caesar.

And, while I feel that Mr. Roosevelt should be given every honor that is due him, the time has come when we must change our methods in Washington. Every fair-minded man must concede that many of the questions Mr. Roosevelt has asked are proper, but it must also be conceded that his answers don't work.

SAYS ROOSEVELT WASTED SESSION

When congress convened in the last session there were many important pieces of legislation pressing for enactment. But what did Mr. Roosevelt do? He wasted practically the entire session of congress of 1937 fighting to get more power for himself.

Now the President has just called a special session of congress. In making his announcement he outlined commendable purposes. We all agree with them. That makes it unanimous again. But now is he going to achieve them? First of course, he asks for more power.

His government reorganization bill—regardless of what he has said about it, has for its main purpose the placing of practically every federal employe under the thumb of the President, to be hired and fired at his direction. It would also place the semi-judicial commissions under control of the executive.

It will precipitate another controversy just as important as that which occurred in regard to the supreme court, because it involves the strikes at the very core of our constitutional representative government.

WANTS PROGRESS WITH CONSTITUTION

I have pointed out to you in different ways in which the President has violated the letter and spirit of the Constitution. I have proven to you in each case our country unmistakably would have been better off if he had followed the Constitution.

From this there can be but one conclusion. If we are to go forward from here, it must be under the practical guidance of that great document.

Mr. Roosevelt asks for more power and still more power to accomplish his purposes. And as he uses lack of power as an alibi, we will never get real progress. Most of the gains he has made in peace because he has been given too much power.

What we really needs power—a person that will take from him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties, men whose hearts also are in the right place but men who have had more experience, who know more about the practical application of government than he does.

COUPLE TO OBSERVE 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Eight Children To Join Mr. and Mrs. John Rayner for Dinner Sunday.

A family dinner Sunday will mark the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Rayner of 275 Fies avenue, former Hardin county residents for many years.

Their eight living children, one of whom was born in England where Mr. and Mrs. Rayner were married, and most of their 29 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren are expected to join them Sunday. Their anniversary will come next Tuesday but the family dinner Sunday and calls by friends will mark the event Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rayner lived in Ridgeway, Hardin county for 40 years before moving more than a year ago to Marion to live with a daughter, Mrs. Asa Titus. Prior to that they had lived at Bowling Green.

Mr. Rayner, 81, was employed by the Toledo & Ohio Central railroad, owned by the New York Central, for nearly 39 years as a section foreman. He helped build the line from Toledo to Columbus and assisted in building the railroad yards at Kenton.

Mrs. Rayner, 83, is the only member of her family living in this country excepting a brother, Charles Hurst, of Weston, O. Mr. Rayner is the only member of his family residing in the United States. He corresponded with three sisters and a brother for many years but the correspondence was broken up during the World war and he has not heard from them since.

Mr. Rayner worked on a farm in England before coming to this country when he was 25. The United States, to people of modest means, is more a land of opportunity than England, "but the people there are just as happy as they are here," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Rayner were married at Welney, England.

Their children, in addition to Mrs. Titus, are John Rayner, Jr. of Ridgeway, Edward Rayner of Bowling Green, Charles Rayner of Abbotsford, Wis., James Rayner of Minneapolis, Minn., Earl Rayner of Cloquet, Minn., Mrs. C. J. Eddy of 295 Fies avenue and Mrs. Chester McMahan of Belle Center.

MARION GRAD OF '76 TO GO TO KENYON CEREMONY

C. C. Fisher, One of Oldest Living Graduates, To Attend Installation.

Charles C. Fisher, dean of the Marion County Bar association and one of the oldest living graduates of Kenyon college at Gambier, will accompany Rev. S. S. Hardy, official representative of St. Paul's Episcopal church of Marion, to the inaugration ceremonies marking the installation of Dr. Gordon Keith Chalmers as sixteenth president of the college on Saturday.

Mr. Fisher is a member of the class of '76 and one of the three members of the class known to be living. When he attended the commencement exercises last year, he was the oldest graduate present.

Among his prized possessions is the Phi Beta Kappa ribbon which Rutherford B. Hayes wore when he was guest of honor at the commencement of the class of eight young men in 1876. Mr. Hayes had been nominated for president of the United States two weeks earlier.

According to reports from Kenyon campus, not since 1877 when President Hayes visited the college with his entire cabinet has there been such excitement at the century-old institution as will mark the colorful ceremonies Saturday. Official representatives from hundreds of American colleges and universities will be in the academic procession, for not since 1896 has Kenyon inaugurated a president.

Among the students who will witness the ceremonies will be a grandson of Mr. Fisher, Tom Sawyer of Hillsdale, Mich., a member of the class of '39.

The wife of the new president taught at Bancroft School for Girls at Worcester, Mass., of which Mr. Fisher's daughter, Miss Hope Fisher, is head.

Addresses at the inauguration in the morning will be made by Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore college and American secretary for the Rhodes Scholarships and by President Chalmers. Dr. Henry Wise Hobson, Episcopal Bishop of southern Ohio, will preside at the inauguration.

Dr. Chalmers is 33 years old and is a graduate of Oxford where he was a Rhodes scholar. He has been president of Rockford college at Rockford, Ill.

WALTER LIPPMANN SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife Says He Has Violent and Ungovernable Temper.

By The Associated Press

BRADENTON, Fla., Oct. 20—Charging her husband with extreme cruelty and habitual indulgence in a violent and ungovernable temper, Mrs. Faye Lippmann filed suit in circuit court yesterday for divorce from Walter Lippmann, author and newspaper columnist.

The Lippmanns were married in New York City, May 24, 1917, and lived together until August, 1937, the petition set forth.

Mrs. Lippmann said that on Aug. 11, her husband left for an extended tour of Europe. She sought him at the pier, the petition recited, "and her husband treated her with absolute coldness and told her that he cared absolutely nothing for her."

The petition also declared the "defendant is shrewd and quick in his mental processes, commands a vocabulary virtually unlimited, is a facile veteran in the use of invective and development of criticism, a phase of his equipment that he constantly uses in administering verbal punishment upon complainant."

The Lippmanns have no children.

All set? Listen: HERE'S THE ENGINEERING MUST STORY OF THE YEAR!

Featuring the DYNAFLASH ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — in the Most Modern Chassis in the World

You won't drive a hundred yards in a new Buick without realizing that something marvelously new and different is happening here.

It's something that happens in no other car, in no other engine.

Speeding through the intake manifold, the fuel charge hurricanes into the cylinder at something like 250 miles an hour.

Leaping to meet it is the piston, with a unique device called a Turbulator built into its face.

Then occurs something more than high compression—literally cyclompression—as swirling gasoline vapor is compacted about the spark plug.

The spark sets off a fist-size hurricane—and gasoline gives up more performance than it ever gave up in a commercial engine before!

This livelier, smarter power might seem enough for engineers to lavish on a car in a single year.

But matching DYNAFLASH power in importance is Buick TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING and its arrowflite ride.

Take a Buick over a railroad crossing—around a curve—over bumps.

There's no thud and clatter, no tail-swing or roll; you cover rough going with the silk-smoothness of a panther on the prowl.

All because old-type leaf springs are gone! In their place, each wheel has a soft, shock-smothering cushion of stout coiled steel.

Skid risks are blessedly reduced. Rear tires last longer. The whole car handles more easily! That's TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING at work!

If it's power you're after, you'll want Buick's DYNAFLASH engine. If it's comfort, you'll choose the TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING ride.

With either you get the other—plus half a score of features your Buick dealer is waiting to describe. See him now—for the engineering "must" story of the year!

MARION MOTORISTS HEAR "NOT OVER 50" MESSAGE

Spokesman for Safe Driving Plan Explains in Talks Here How Less Speed Means Fewer Deaths.

Marion motorists were introduced yesterday to a "Not Over 50 Club," a movement to make automobile driving safer by placing a maximum limit on speed.

The introduction came through Lamoin R. Lippincott of Cleveland, executive secretary of the organization, in talks before the Marion Rotary club.

Mr. Lippincott addressed the student body at the Marion high school assembly, and at noon was guest of Thomas A. Edison Junior High school.

Head of the club that seeks death where more automobiles roam at a high rate of speed and says to be the most costly and deadly, the clubs members are pledged to keep their top speed under 50 miles an hour.

"We advocate keeping under 50 because we know there is less chance of death or accident in the lower speed bracket," Mr. Lippincott said in his talk to the Rotary club, which followed the Rotarians' weekly luncheon yesterday at Hotel Harding.

Lower Speed, Fewer Deaths

Giving evidence to support the safe-speed program, Mr. Lippincott said "The National Safety council records show that one out of every 11 accidents where speeds are in excess of 50 miles an hour results in a fatality. Where the speed is between 40 and 50, one accident in 25 causes a death. In many cities, such as Boston, St. Louis and St. Paul, the reduction of speed has immediately resulted in fewer accidents and fewer fatalities."

In the chart here, made through arrangements of Frank M. Knapp, Mr. Lippincott pictured a drive to enroll Marion members and reported that Ohio already has 4,000 members and that the total enrollment in the United States and Canada has reached 129,000.

To aid members in keeping their pledge in mind, they are provided with buttons to be used as constant reminders. One is placed over the speedometer where it can't escape notice of the driver and another is provided for the rear of the car to remind others that excessive speed is dangerous.

Speed Demonstration

Mr. Lippincott illustrated the effect of speed by calling attention to a "45 caliber bullet. "If I fire the bullet at you," he said, "you will calculate it and dodge it. But if through the force of gunpowder I hurl it at you at the rate of 800 feet a second, you will not know it hurt. So it is that with automobile accidents at speeds below 50 miles an hour mean work for the doctor and the repairman, while accidents at high speeds make work for the undertaker and the junk man.

"A car traveling 50 miles an hour requires 220 feet to stop. At 60, it needs 317 feet. Speed means more force and less time. Recent studies have shown that the fastest runner in the world can not get out of the way of a car moving 37 miles an hour unless he is farther than 40 feet away.

"Those who know best—the experts, the racing drivers—are joining the club and adding their influence to its work. Sir Malcolm Campbell, who holds the speed record for operation of an automobile, has definitely stated that as far as he is concerned, 50 miles an hour is the top speed between cities, and then only under ideal conditions.

Time Saving Tests

"Tests have shown that speed saves little time in comparison to the increased danger. A test run made in Kansas over a 300 mile route showed only 25 minutes saved between an average top speed of 60 and one of 50. Twice as many cars were passed at the higher speed. Every time a car is passed there is increased probability of accident.

Mr. Lippincott pointed how many industrial concerns are making the "Not Over 50" club an addition to their shop safety program. "They recognize that injury to workers away from employment has just as definite an effect upon the flow of production as do accidents in the plant," he said.

Clubs are also being formed in schools with boys and girls not only signing the pledge themselves but getting others to enroll, the Marion audience was informed.

"The Not Over 50 club is in accord with the most advanced thoughts on safety," Mr. Lippincott declared. "Experts are in agreement that the driver and his attitude control the solution to the traffic accident problem. Not Over 50 club members by their example and missionary zeal are declaring that traffic fatalities must be reduced."

Infantile Paralysis

AT THIS time of the year there is usually a marked increase in the reported number of infantile paralysis cases.

Epidemics of "Poliomyelitis", the medical name for infantile paralysis, frequently occur in one or another section of the country. Fortunately, these outbreaks are usually moderate in number and violence. They do not justify that fear which occured in the last serious outbreak. But no matter how mild the epidemic, the disease still excites fear and even terror. Every parent in the neighborhood is unhappy.

The campaign against infantile paralysis continues daily. Scientists all over the world are seriously engaged in research work, attempting to determine the actual cause of this dreaded disease. In this country much work has been carried on in the same field. It is hoped that great benefits will soon be available, not only in the treatment of the disease, but in its prevention.

Although only two per cent of children are likely to have this disease, the percentage varies in different years. What will happen depends on the general health of the nation, as well as certain other factors which have not as yet been determined.

The disease is not necessarily confined to children; it afflicts adults as well. Some persons seem more susceptible to it than others. It all depends on the lack of natural immunity or protection against disease. Like many other diseases, one attack of infantile paralysis usually gives protection against future attacks. It is well to be on guard against this disease, and it promotes safety to follow the general rules of hygiene and sanitation.

If a child is known to have infantile paralysis, it is imperative that he be kept to himself. No children should be permitted to play with him or enter his sick room. Rigid quarantine should be enforced to guard others from the disease.

As it is difficult to recognize the disease in its early stages, it is always best to consult a doctor as soon as a child or adult shows suspicious signs. Irritability, restlessness, pain and fever are signs that should never be ignored, whether infantile paralysis is about or not.

For the victim of paralysis who has recovered but is disabled, special exercises are now available. Rather complete recovery is expected for the adult victim of this disease. In certain instances surgery may be advised. But this must be determined by the doctor because no two cases are the same.

To Win You Must Have Energy

This gentle bile-producer might help*

Weakness and mental dullness can be caused by constipation. Just as it also can produce headaches, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, mental depression.

You can see how vital is proper elimination. So, if more than one day goes by without it, assist Nature. Use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They are mild, gentle, and thoroughly effective because they also stimulate the liver's secretion of bile without the discomfort of drastic or irritating drugs.

Millions take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for this rare combination of gentleness and effectiveness. Use them in safeguarding your own welfare. 15¢, 30¢ and 60¢ at all druggists.

*Your liver secretes from 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day to aid in the digestion of fats and stimulate muscular action of the intestinal system. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, besides helping to keep you regular, contain a special ingredient which definitely assists the bile flow. That is one reason why Olive Tablets have consistently effected results.

EMMITT ON AGUE

James Emmitt, pioneer business man of Pike county, writing of the condition of the Scioto bottom in that county in the early days, said:

"The bottoms were immense tracts of marshy lands, unfit for habitation of man. The atmosphere was fairly reeking with malaria—impossible to live in the lowlands without suffering constantly with fever and ague."

This was written long before doctors suspected the relation of ague to the mosquito. The notion was generally prevalent that the swamp's contaminated air produced malaria, and to breathe the air of the swamp was to contract the disease.

A jury set aside the codicil to the Drake will and the appeal was made by Charles and Anna Dell Drake, children of the deceased, who would have benefited by the codicil. In the answer brief, filed by Mrs. Amanda Hipsher and Frank Drake, other children injured by the codicil, it is stated there was evidence the codcil had been made either when the deceased was incompetent or under undue influence from Charles. W. P. Moloney and George T. Geran represent the answering children, while Homer E. Johnson, French Crow and Milo Myers of Marysville are attorneys for Charles and Anna Dell.

Mr. Orr appealed his $30,000 damage suit in which a jury recently denied him a judgment. He charges he was knocked from a ladder and permanently injured as Miss Burke backed her automobile out her driveway into the foot of the ladder which was against a neighbor's house. In her answer Miss Burke states the record shows Orr was trespassing. She states she was not aware of his presence when she backed out and that the driveway curved, hindering full vision. W. P. Moloney is her attorney while Z. P. Davis and W. Dexter Hazen represent Orr.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE . . .

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick, and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Mt. Gilead Woman Has Held Position of Court Reporter for Half Century

Nettie H. Wieland of Mt. Gilead who this month rounded out 50 years of service as Morrow county court stenographer, has recorded the testimony given in thousands of court cases but literally "hasn't heard a word" of what has been spoken in them.

Not until Mrs. Wieland transcribed her shorthand notes, using a pen in the early years in the place of typewriters, did she learn what the testimony in the cases had been, she disclosed in an interview at her home here.

"In the first few cases I listened to, the testimony was interesting and I really listened to it as I wrote," she said. "Then I began to realize that by paying attention to the progress of the case I was apt to lose out in my notes.

"Consequently, I trained myself to ignore the case and concern myself only with the sound of the voices whose words I was to record. In this way, with nothing in mind but catching the sounds and recording them on paper, I was able to turn out a perfect transcript. Doing this makes the work entirely mechanical—I'm just a machine, in a way, while I'm at work—but it's the only way to do the job right."

Mrs. Wieland's shorthand notes, with the exception of a few improvements she has developed during her long period of service and which have been passed to other court reporters, could be read by anyone familiar with the type of shorthand she uses, because she does not use symbols for phrases but writes out every word. "In many cases, there's a big difference between the words 'a' and 'the'," she pointed out.

First Typewriter In 1892

Until 1892, Mrs. Wieland wrote out her transcriptions in longhand, a tedious and tiring task. Her first typewriter was a machine that permitted only slow work "but was an improvement over longhand," she said. She now uses modern machines with facility.

The nature of cases and the conduct of attorneys have changed markedly in the half century she has prepared court records.

"For a long time there were many cases that grew out of saloon fights and arguments over line fences," she recalled.

"Attorneys years ago were bitter in their conduct toward each other in the trial of a case, much more so than today."

Mrs. Wieland, unassuming and quiet, is not a conspicuous person in the courtroom at any time. She seldom leaves the desk provided for her, and rarely has had to ask a person to repeat his words. Even at recesses she remains at her desk rather than joining in the conversation.

High School Grad At 14

She was graduated from Delaware High school at the age of 14 while her parents made Delaware their home. She tried school teaching in Marion county, but said after one term she asked to be released. Returning to her home in Delaware, she enrolled in a normal school but shortly afterward decided to change her course of study and took up commercial courses, studying shorthand and becoming so proficient that she was offered a position as a teacher. She taught there a short time and left when the family moved to Mt. Gilead in 1887. Later the same year she was asked to try her hand at court reporting by an attorney who complained that the lawyers could not agree on the notes they took on testimony given in trials. She said she at first doubted her ability to handle courtroom work, but soon became familiar with legal phraseology and held the position of court reporter steadily, with the exception of a few brief intervals.

Mrs. Wieland has worked temporarily in a number of other counties in this vicinity, occasionally accompanying Judges when they were called to hear cases in other cities. At one time for a period of several months she served as the official court reporter for both Morrow and Wyandot counties.

Her stepson, Judge P. H. Wieland, is judge of the Morrow county common pleas court. He has served since 1932.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Philip Asks Madge Not to Coach Mary in Her Stage Role.

IT SEEMED to me an eternity before Phillip Veritzen spoke again, but it really was little more than a second. His first words showed me, to my great relief, that, for the moment, at least, he was through with the seperation of Mary and Noel during her rehearsals for the stellar role in my play.

"I trust you will consider this next request an impertinence," he said.

I braced myself for the flamboyant answer which I knew would please him.

"You couldn't be impertinent, Mr. Vertizen," I said softly.

He smiled with the subtle air of self-attributed irresistibility which always so infuriated me.

"When you look like that, you tempt me to try," he said, lowering his own voice.

"You know what curiosity does to the felines," I said with determined lightness. "I warn you I am going to share their fate if you do not tell me the second thing you have on your mind about Mary."

"If only you do not misunderstand," he sighed, and again I indulged in subterfuge.

Flattering Offer

"Surely you know I could not misunderstand you," I said stressing the last pronoun, and hoping he would not detect that my words were true enough, but with just the opposite meaning to that which I meant to convey to him.

"Thank you," he said, and then went on with surprising hesitance for him.

"Perhaps you remember," he said, "that I was so pleased at your rendition of the different roles in your play when you read them to me that I made you an offer, which I foolishly thought might appeal to you."

"It did appeal to me," I told him truthfully, remembering the gratified thrill with which I had heard him bring to life a long buried ambition when he offered to give me two years of intensive dramatic training under his own guidance, and then give me a role in one of his own productions.

"It was a most flattering and astounding offer," I went on, "and I want to assure you again that nothing in the world save my duty to my family would have made me refuse it."

"A mistaken duty," he said didastically, "I thought so then, and I still think so. But I know you are as adamant as the old Medes in your decisions, so I never have urged the question. It is something opposite, however, which I wish to ask you today."

He stopped again while his eyes traveled over my face with a curious, speculative questioning in them.

"It's going to be difficult for you to refrain from coaching Mary in this role," he said, "but I want to ask you to let her alone, so that she will choose her own interpretation."

I caught my breath in astonishment and exasperation. Was this a random shot of his, or had he guessed my secret plan with that uncanny presience, the tradition of which wraps round him? My brain raced with the necessity of avoiding a direct pledge to him, and at the same time making him think that I acquiesced the request he had just made me.

Those Rocks Again

WHEN a man backs into a buzz saw he doesn't know which tooth did the most damage. President Roosevelt doesn't know which one of the rocks of the "loose fiscal policy" over which he has been steering the ship of state is bumping its hull hardest, but collectively they're making a loud, crunching noise. It couldn't be imagination, could it?

No, because Mr. Roosevelt, himself, hears it, and he would rather hear something else. In his third statement this year on the fiscal situation he points out that things are getting worse. They were worse last spring than he thought they would be last January. They are worse now than he thought they would be last spring. He doesn't say so, but they'll be worse yet if the present slump continues to knock millions off income tax expectations and earning power.

Specifically, the budget for the current year won't balance, as Mr. Roosevelt said it would last January, or come within $400,000,000 of balance, as he said it would in April. He says now it will come within $700,000,000 of balance, but if the deficit for the year is more than a billion no one will be surprised, not excluding the President.

Who is to blame for this monstrous miscalculation? President Roosevelt? His new dealers? The Fancy Dans who are urging capitalism to finance its own extinction with their New Era fallacies. Nope, none of these. Congress is to blame. Mr. Roosevelt says so.

When he promises to shovel out the cash, it's always WE who are going to help the forgotten man. But now that the cash has been shoveled out and the bin is full of IOU's, it's THEY who did the dirty work. THEY, meaning congress, Mr. Roosevelt says, spent more money than he told them to. His own spending didn't have a thing to do with it ..etc

Now, it so happens that the President has called a special session of congress for Nov. 15, and congressmen can read. The purpose of the special session is to hurry on with the More Abundant Life through legislation. The key to the session's success, of course, is whether congressmen will lie down in front of the New Era's steamroller, instead of jumping about and thumbing their noses as they did when Mr. Roosevelt tried to destroy the judiciary.

It's not hard to imagine what they will think and say when the boys out yonder read that THEY are to blame for the deficit and WE are to be praised for the More Abundant Life. Some of them, a lot of them, are going to decide that if Mr. Roosevelt wants a showdown he can have it right now. He has outmaneuvered himself again, by picking congress as the scapegoat for the fact that the expensive panaceas it legislated on his orders can't be paid for. Franklin D. Roosevelt has got hold of something by the tail this time—something that's too hot and bothered to let loose.

Not Taken for Granted

ANOTHER air transport plane has fallen in the same Wyoming-Utah border area where a wrecked plane and its seven occupants lay from last December till June of this year.

Despite the tender sensibilities of air transport concerns, accidents to their planes will continue to excite widespread interest. The argument that plane accidents get too much attention—fails to be convincing. There is intense interest in everything about flying.

It is not taken for granted by the public that air travel and death must fly together. No one takes it for granted, and that is an encouraging aspect of the development of flight. There is no sign that the public is going to be callous to the element of risk in aviation.

What this may mean is best demonstrated by comparison with the situation in ground transportation. The death and maiming each day of hundreds of citizens has become a commonplace item of information. It has become very difficult to arouse public interest to acute awareness of the element of risk in automotive transportation.

The death toll increased too slowly at first and was too carelessly noted. The safety factor was ignored in the scramble for advantage in a competitive business. The country went wild over the blessings of automotive transportation and forgot the curse.

Aviation can well afford not to make the same mistake.

Not Impressed

JAPANESE statesmen must guess correctly the possibility of foreign intervention in the Chinese campaign. Their jobs and lives are at stake.

They've not made a blunder yet. They seized Manchuria and parts of the northern provinces without a slip. It's of more than ordinary significance, therefore, that the latest Japanese drive is moving forward without a sign of letdown.

This is Japan's direct answer to President Roosevelt's threat of intervention. It needs no interpretation. Japanese statesmen don't believe the President's threat means anything.

This is the problem of statesmanship in these parlous times—how to stop a fight without fighting.

On the Record

Stock Market Slide Reveals Complete Breakdown in Federal Regulation Plan.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 — Whatever the unprecedented stock market break proves or does not prove, one fact stands out glaringly. There is at this moment, a complete breakdown of the government regulatory system which we have been asked to prescribe existed, and which was to save us from just this sort of thing.

Dorothy Thompson

We are in a national emergency. A deflationary course has started which, if it continues, can snowball us downward with incredible rapidity. That course was actually started by the government, presumably as a move to check too rapid expansion. Now, that it is under way, there is paralysis. For many reasons the private forces which normally might act, do not do so. Neither does the government. It is as though the government had put a padlock on the national economy and thrown away the key.

For the first time in our entire history securities have suffered an uninterrupted decline for two months, with a fall of 67 per cent in 195 major stocks. In this decline, the small stockholder, the middle class of the country, has suffered unprecedentedly. Holding no equities outright, and having confidence in the state of the nation, he has held on, right down to the last minute. Every index justified his confidence. The market was not exaggeratedly high in relation to earnings. None of the conditions which prevailed in 1929 were present. There were no top-heavy brokers' loans, no excess development in the capital goods industries, no large and uncertain loans abroad and plenty of credit. Nevertheless, we have at this moment, a situation in which stocks in excellently organized companies are selling for three times their annual earnings! In 1929 when the economic structure was really and basically unsound, action from private groups and individuals repeatedly checked the panic. Thus, Mr. Rockefeller jumped in and bought publicly, and hugely, to check the fall. Again, the banks, under the leadership of Mr. Morgan, and with the co-operation of the Federal Reserve formed a pool of $50,000,000 to support the market. In the end, nothing could hold a fundamentally unsound structure from collapse.

But now we are seeing that nothing is holding a fundamentally sound structure from collapse! The Rockefellers—the economic royalists—are not holding it. The capital gains tax operates to prevent them from doing so. The market itself is not holding it, it, too, is crippled with regulations. The banks, as reorganized, can not hold it. And the government is not holding it, either.

Take Slide Lightly

It is reported that important officials take the stock market collapse lightly. One is reported to say that it will go on for another two months and then rally. If it goes on for another two months we shall be in the soup. Rumors run around that the President doesn't really care what happens to the men in Wall Street—in a gamblers' world, anyhow. It is impossible to see how anything so wild. Obviously the market does not exist in a vacuum.

Meanwhile we have a President's speech about prosperity, and the announcement that the government will decrease its spending, a procedure excellent if there is prosperity, but adding to the disaster if there is not. We are to have an emergency session of congress, apparently to discuss everything except the emergency. A program of numerous bills is laid out, perhaps good, perhaps bad, likely in any case to add to the general uncertainty but likely in no case to deal with the situation which confronts us.

This situation, right now is the test of government planning, of government regulation. The second Roosevelt administration like the first, has got to meet a crisis. But this time it is not a crisis created by the new era of Mr. Hoover, but a situation occurring in the midst of the new deal. It is the new deal system which is involved, not somebody's else's system. And it will be too bad if it turns out that all the regulation has been done with monkey wrenches, which have been left inside the patient.

One Thing Certain

One thing is certain. This is no time to call names. The country is less interested, at the moment, about who is to blame than about what is to be done. If the feeling of hatred and hostility, of exaggerated lack of confidence on both sides were diminished, that, of itself, would ease the crisis. We have been living in a witch-burning atmosphere, spending our energies chasing devils, thinking that if things went wrong the way to right them was to find the responsible scoundrels. Maybe there aren't any very outstanding scoundrels. Maybe the trouble is that we are all pretty ignorant, rarely wise, given to the energetic pursuit of self-interest, nevertheless anxious to behave as well as possible, and conscious that we are all bound up, for life or death, in the nation and the economic system of which we are a part. On that basis we might try to get together, bridge the gap between business and government, which have been operating in separate rings, like a circus, and begin again in an atmosphere of mutual trust since, after all, we all sleep under the same roof. And sleep is restless with a pistol under the pillow.

In 1933 President Roosevelt demonstrated what could be done by an appeal to the best instincts of everybody, by an appeal to a constructive social spirit. I wish he would get out his own early speeches and read them again. They had a temper and tone which would be refreshing at this moment. They got a reaction, which would be useful at this moment.

Wages and Hours

A Look at Congressmen's Own Schedule as They Prepare To Act on That of Other People.

ONE of the excuses for calling a special session of congress is wage and hour legislation. Since it is to be an important subject before congressmen, their own wages and hours may be worth considering.

A study by Editorial Research Reports turns up the following interesting information about the time congressmen put in at their for it:

work and the money they get paid.

The session that ended last August was one of the longest in history, though it accomplished little. It lasted 229 days. Subtracting 32 Sundays, there were 197 possible days of meeting. The house met on 154 of these days and the senate on 128. Sittings in the house averaged 4½ hours, in the senate 3½ hours.

Absenteeism in the senate averaged 15 per cent throughout all roll calls; in the house it was 20 per cent. In the senate the largest number of members answering any roll call was 92 out of a total of 96. In the house it was 421 out of a total of 435. Leaves of absence granted in the house during the session numbered 333. Some of these were for indefinite periods.

Time consumed by senate roll calls amounted to 44 hours and 12½ legislative days of average length. Roll calls in the house took up 103 hours and 10 minutes, the equivalent of almost 22 legislative days. Nearly 10 per cent of the senate's time was consumed by roll calls. Time consumed in the house was about 15 per cent.

Senators and representatives are paid a flat $10,000 a year, regardless of the time they spend at the job. Therefore, their rate of pay per week is reduced by a long session, increased by a short one.

The regular 1937 session lasted about 37 weeks. The special session beginning Nov. 15 will last six weeks. Rate of pay for the 50 weeks will be $256.40 a week, or about $42.73 for each working day.

If, as is predicted, the regular 1938 session lasts only till June 1, 22 weeks, the rate of pay will be $454.55 a week, of $75.75 a day.

In addition to salary, congressmen get allowances for clerk hire—$10,320 a year in the senate; $5,000 in the house. Each member also receives $125 for stationery, which he may spend or not. The franking privilege is worth about $1,500 a year. Congressmen also get mileage allowance at the rate of 20 cents a mile.

In N. Y. Chinatown.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK—The "war" in China has done something to Mott street, the heart of New York's Chinatown.

Drably-garbed denizens have buried factional strife and politics to make common cause of the campaign against Japan.

They've even lost some of their dread of photographers.

Time was when an assignment to Chinatown was among the toughest for New York cameramen.

Enter a shop where elderly, mysterious-looking Chinese are smoking placidly, and one of them says quietly, "Go way." They won't listen to an explanation. But if a shopkeeper should agree to have pictures taken in his store, his clerks scurry away. Some say the Chinese are afraid they lose part of their souls when their pictures are taken.

But today there is much less interest in the passing photographer. Everyone concentrates on the news from the home land.

As bulletins are posted on the sides of buildings, there is a rush to read them. Young men in styles fresh from Allen street, old men in timeless sack suits, or befrogged jackets they wore in China, gather to study. The photographer, who sees drama in the tense faces and bodies, clicks his shutter then unheeded.

These people have a stake in the far eastern struggle. Nearly every one of them has given something—money or clothing—to the cause. The Chinese newspapers in New York collect the money and a Chinese school on Mott street gathers the clothes. Many Chinatown workers have pledged a percentage of their salaries.

No Japanese live in Chinatown, though a few come around to eat Chinese food occasionally. So far there has been no trouble.

From poverty to wealth is a troublesome journey, but the way back is easy.—Japanese proverb.

Schools of 1947

Educational Authority Visions Radio as Vital Feature of Classroom Work.

BY LYDIA GRAY SHAW
Associated Press Writer

IT'S 1947. Forty children are in a classroom, scribbling busily on arithmetic problems. The teacher is scribbling too. Now and then all pause, listen, then scribble some more.

Twenty blocks away 40 more children are working on the same problems. In a suburb of the city, still more children are busy at the same work.

And it's all because of radio. The arithmetic lesson is being dictated over the air to all schools at the same time.

Chicago Sets Example

Maybe it won't even take 10 years for this to come about asserts Frank Ernest Hill of the Adult Educational association, who has just completed a study of radio in education.

In fact, some schools mainly those in Rochester, New York and Cleveland already have introduced — tentatively — the broadcasting of classroom problems by radio. And alert Chicago school principals during the recent infantile paralysis outbreak, arranged for stay-at-home children to keep up with their work with daily broadcasts.

So far, however, radio classroom work has been a novelty. Children have heard all kinds of supplementary work over the air, mainly orchestra programs and speakers.

'Packed With Dynamite'

But, says Mr. Hill the 1947 air curriculum will include fundamental instruction as well as supplemental work.

"Education by radio is just packed with dynamite," he exclaimed enthusiastically upon his return from a national tour of broadcasting stations. "Cleveland has already petitioned the federal communications commission to set aside certain frequencies for their schools' use."

School programs of the future will be broadcast over short wave frequencies from a central point, he says, because commercial stations cannot give enough time to schools.

May Displace Books

The new field will not reduce the number of teachers by any means, Mr. Hill hastens to add. Even more may be needed, since radio requires teachers who have pleasing voices as well as specialized knowledge.

Teachers still will be needed in classrooms to check up on students' work, since the pupils can't talk back to the radio.

Books may be displaced to some extent, Mr. Hill thinks. But he says that is not a serious matter. Spelling is spelling, whether you learn it from a book or from the air waves. And reference books are always needed.

Will this new educational method make teachers lazy? No, answers Mr. Hill they will have to work harder. They will have to do the problems with their pupils. No relaxation for them when the radio is turned on.

Dinner Stories

The identity of the young lady is withheld, but the memory of her answer lingers on with the instructor conducting a science course at a local high school. One of the requirements in the written quiz was "Define a bolt and nut and explain the difference, if any." The girl wrote:

"A bolt is a thing like a stick of hard metal such as iron with a square bunch at one end and a long scratching wound around the other end. A nut is similar to the bolt only just the opposite being a hole in a little chunk of iron sawed off short, with wrinkles around the inside of the hole."

The startled professor marked that one with a large "A."—Troy (N. Y.) Times Record.

In New York

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—A saunter through lower East Side is convincing proof that the old East Side of stage plays and novels is passing. Side of tenement squalor and filth [illegible]. Vast playgrounds appear on every side and modern housing is supplanting the ancient and scabrous fire traps.

The residents down there seem as contented and prosperous as those in almost any area. The familiar streetcars of the East Side trundle by and the Lee Lash theater back drops are no more. The only old custom preserved is sitting on stoops in front of shops in the evening.

Tompkins Square is the debating ground of the discontents. Always there is a C. I. O. fellow rallying his "fellow workers." Capital is the everlasting enemy and each speaker seems to grow bright-eyed talking about a proposed march on Washington shortly.

East Side streets to me have the most appealing chanting names in the directory. Cherry, Orchard, Pitt, Clinton, Sussex, Norfolk and Suffolk, Baxter and Avenues A and B. They too, Delancey, robust with life and as much as Broadway was in its greater heyday.

City fishermen know little about what the small towner calls "rock fishing" or fishing with bare hands. It is an accomplished art along the mud flats and especially about creek mouths. Barefoot and shirtless, the fisherman feels among the rocks in shallow water for the mud cat and often in a flash lifts out a baby sized catch, while the thumb and forefinger ripped into its gills. It not only requires great skill, but expert timing, for the slightest deflection may result in a fin slashing that is painful.

Political Creed

THE late Ogden L. Mills, staunch Republican who undertook a singlehanded fight against what he considered the fallacies of the new deal long before any general opposition was offered, described his political creed in a speech in 1926, using the following words:

"Why am I a Republican? I am a Republican because I do not believe that the party which began by doubting the power and reality of the nation, the party of states' rights, of nullification, of free trade, of repudiation of debts of unsound money, the party which was proud to fight and believed in 'peace with victory,' the party which led us unprepared into the great war and brought us out of it unprepared for peace, the party of internationalism abroad and of weakness and opportunism at home—is the party which has the character, the principles, the courage or the ability warrant us in intrusting to it the destinies of the nation during these confused and troubled times of domestic and world reconstruction.

"Whereas, the history of the Republican party and of its predecessors, the Federalist and Whig parties, teaches me that they have solved constructively and successfully all of our great national crises; and I am firmly convinced that we can draw from the lessons of their past and from the principles on which they were founded the inspiration, courage and genius which will enable us to suppress disloyalty with denial of justice; to restore order and confidence and respect for the law; to defend our traditional institutions and constitutional liberties against all manner of attack; to repel the arrogant challenge of any class and to maintain a government of all the people as contrasted with a government for some of the people to the exclusion of others; to perform our duties toward the rest of the world without sacrifice of our national independence; and finally, to allay unrest, suspicion and fear, and to secure the co-operation and unity of all classes in the solution of the complex economic problems of the day, to the end that this country of ours may be happy and prosperous, proud of its past, sure of itself and of its institutions, and may look forward with confidence to the future America—the Land of Promise."

Today in Ohio History

One of the most destructive tornadoes recorded in the history of Ohio passed through Summit county 100 years ago today.

The storm of Oct. 20, 1837, spent much of its fury on Stow township, which it struck at 3 o'clock in the morning, sweeping a path 3 rods wide. The residence of Freeman Ford was demolished; his two sons and a son-in-law were killed, and he later succumbed to injuries. The force of the storm was such that it was said to have stripped every feather from fowls in its path.

The levy, school officials point out, is a reinstatement of a levy dropped in 1935 which Galion had paid previous to 1935. It amounts to 2½ mills because expenditures have been more than the receipts for general school operation since 1935.

FORCED LANDINGS

Somehow, it never occurs to the modern girl that she will some day be as unsophisticated, "old-fashioned" and worldly-innocent as her mother is.

• • •

The success of a summer love-affair as of any other light comedy, depends so much on the effectiveness with which you make your exit and the brevity of your closing scene.

• • •

The only time when a man seems to be particularly eager to get into a woman's heart is when it is marked "Not running. Closed for repairs."

• • •

Every woman likes to believe that her husband was once a great lover. Even the wife of a judge or a dean gets a bit of a thrill out of finding an old white glove or a pink satin slipper among his bachelor relics.

• • •

Hint to Modern Brides: Feed a man plenty of applesauce, and he won't notice what kind of a can the rest of the dinner comes out of.

• • •

Today's popular custom of announcing your engagement to a movie star before you have started your divorce proceedings seems just like sticking the burned fingers back into the fire before the bandages are off.

• • •

This is the solacing season when a man thanks heaven that the only woman on earth who knows where anything is has gotten back from her summer vacation. No, I don't mean his wife—I mean his stenographer.

• • •

Not all wives are prosaic; they merely seem so, because it's so hard for a man to get thrilled about a woman who is mixed up in his consciousness with his alarm clock, the bicarbonate of soda and his insurance policy.

• • •

In the game of love, an ounce of "appeal" is worth a bushel of "claims."

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Statistics proved that left-handedness has nothing to do with stuttering, and now Professor Bryng Bryngleson shows it was all just another case of figures being able to prove anything.

He substituted case histories for statistics, in a three-year study at the University of Minnesota.

He found (1) three times as much two-handedness in stutterers as in non. (2) Eight times as much shifting of handedness, that is learning to use the other hand. (3) Fifty-five per cent of "one-sided" in sight and hand, against 12 per cent of stutterers.

There are, his studies indicate, 50 per cent more left handed boys than girls. There are, too, 50 per cent more male stutterers.

The statisistics, Prof. Bryngeson thinks, slipped up because they were gathered by questionnaire. Case histories gave more exact information than the questionnaires.

Concert Debut of New York Artist Opens Season for Marion Lecture-Recital Club

BY EDNA S. DUTTON

OF double significance was the program presented by Miss Carol Moorland, pianist, of New York City, last evening at Hotel Harding, as it marked the young artist's first public concert in America, and she presented the program she will play in her Town Hall recital, Saturday, Oct. 30, in New York City.

The occasion was the initial program of the 1937-38 season for the Marion Lecture-Recital club, and also was the semi-annual meeting of the board of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs held in connection with the fall session of the clubs in Central district at Hotel Harding today.

The ballroom at Hotel Harding was comfortably filled for Miss Moorland's program, and later an informal reception for the guest artist and officers of the state board on the mezzanine floor. Mrs. Karl W. Schell, president of the Lecture-Recital club, welcomed the members and guests.

"I hope they will like my program," Miss Moorland said before the concert, and they (the audience) did. Wearing a flame-colored gown which accentuated her youth and charming personality, the young artist entertained her audience and at the same time gave one of the finest programs both as to content and execution ever heard in Marion.

State Club Officers Here

In the audience were Mrs. Frances Bolton Kortheuer of Cleveland, piano teacher, first vice president of the state federation, an active member of the Fortnightly Music club and an officer of the Women's Music Teachers club; Mrs. J. Roy McHenry of Zanesville, chairman of the special membership, vocalist and concert artist who sings under her own name of Elizabeth Latta, a past president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music clubs and the Matinee Musical club of Philadelphia; Mrs. Philip Nungesser of Cleveland state chairman of international music, a past president of the Cleveland Lecture-Recital club and official representative of the Ohio Federation of the Lecture Recital club; Mrs. Gaillard B. Fuller of Loudonville, third vice president of the state federation, chairman of student musicians and young artists contests; Mrs. John A. Hoffman whose husband is director of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and dean of the faculty, corresponding secretary, chairman of the Cincinnati division of the state federation made up of 35 federated clubs and a past president of the Clifton Music club for 15 years; Miss Margaret Lockwood of Hamilton, state treasurer, vocalist, a graduate of the Cincinnati College of Music and a charter member of the Musical Arts club of Hamilton, and Mrs. Herbert Holscher of Columbus, extension chairman of the state board, head of the voice department of St. Mary of the Springs, and who opened the Lecture-Recital club program last year. All were enthusiastic in the praise of Miss Moorland's talent and artistic performance.

Miss Moorland's Program

Miss Moorland opened her program with "Toccata and Fugue in D. Minor," by Bach-Tausig, and in this, as in the remaining numbers she played with a warmth of interpretation and artistic phrasing and style. Particularly pleasing were her interpretations of the Ravel number, "Sonatine," in which she presented the modere, menuet and anime movements, and a Liszt number, "Tarantella," with which she closed the program.

Completing the program were the allegro, andante and allegretto of the Mozart "Sonata C Major", the interpretative "Scenes from Childhood," by Schumann, which includes "About Strange Lands and Peoples," "Curious Story," "Catch Me If You Can," "Entreating Child," "Contentedness," "Important Event," "Dreaming," "By the Fireside," "The Knight of the Hobby Horse," "Almost Too Serious," "Frightening," "Child Falling Asleep," and "The Poet Speaks"; "Clair de Lune," Debussy "Impromptu," Faure and "Caprice," Sibelius. For an encore she played "Prophet Bird," Schumann.

Miss Moorland returned early this year from abroad and since that time has been making her home in New York City. Accompanied by her mother she went to France in 1922 and her time since then has been spent studying and concertizing in Europe. In Paris she was a protege of Lucy Caffaret, and later she studied at Stern conservatory in Berlin as a scholarship student. At the latter school she was a pupil of Claude Arrau. From 1930 to 1934 she studied and traveled, taking her piano work under the Russian pianist Simon Barer, who recently made his American debut. The Russian pianist spent much of his time in Riga and studying with him took the young American to Germany, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary and Switzerland. Of all the European cities, Miss Moorland likes Vienna and Budapest best, she says.

Marmoset Is Pet

Miss Moorland's traveling companion abroad and "home to America" was a two and one-half ounce marmoset, Paganini, presented to her three years ago in London. The name was chosen, the young artist explains, "because at the time I received him there appeared in a newspaper a caricature of the famous violinist-composer, and there was a delightful resemblance between the two." His diet includes three drops of concentrated cod liver oil in sugared milk and his favorite mode of travel is sitting on a hot water bottle atop his mistress' shoulder. "I've had luck ever since I had him," was her reply to query as to Paganini a 'good luck charm.'" He is temperamental and evidently prefers music to books, as he refused all advances of friendship made by Fannie Hurst with whom Miss Moorland left him for a short time, recently. Paganini didn't come to Marion with his mistress because of an aggravated tooth.

Miss Moorland is looking forward to her Town Hall recital with a feeling of mixed happiness and trepidation. "It is, of course, the ambition of everyone to play in a Town Hall recital, but one never knows what the outcome will be. I'll be glad when it is over."

Miss Moorland, who is the guest of Mrs. David W. Evans of West Center street, during her stay here, appeared on this afternoon's program of the Central district Music clubs program this afternoon. Yesterday morning she motored to Delaware where she played for chapel services.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair, has fallen in love with her stepfather.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, is openly attentive to Nina.

Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is crazy about her new husband.

David, a young auto salesman, adores Nina and has asked her to marry him.

Cordelia is Nina's closest friend.

Chapter 15

Horseface's Advise

DAVID left that night before dinner, refusing Hester's offer of further hospitality with an easy grace. But before he went, he managed a word alone with Nina.

"I've not finished with you yet, young lady," he warned her. "When you kiss 'em, they stay kissed, my darling. More anon."

"More—kisses?"

"You bet. And woolings, and a bethrothal...and maybe a diamond-chip engagement ring, that you'll actually be able to see . . . if you look hard enough and use a magnifying glass.

"David, you agreed that I hadn't committed myself."

"I said 'maybe,' didn't I?"

"But certainly more kisses."

"I said 'you bet,' didn't I?"

"Thank you, for doing what you did, David."

But he only said: "Oh. . . Nina . . . ."and turned away, abruptly.

She watched him walk down the hall, a little stiffly. There was a little cross of white court-plaster, where the blood had trickled out from his temple.

For some reason, Nina's eyes filled with tears.

One Of Those Scenes

In February, Aunt Carrie (Horse-face) Van Alystyne had a little talk with Nina. She had sent for her, and they were having tea in her extremely moderne apartment. There were chairs made of chromium plated tubes and silvered leather. There were black satin hangings and black glass tables, and everything that wasn't black or silver was green. Definitely green. . . . You had to be careful what you gave Aunt Carrie.

Aunt Carrie though it was all a huge joke, particularly the arty young man who had done it for her.

"Don't I look asburd in this place?" she had asked at her housewarming. . . and she did. But then, Aunt Carrie looked a little absurb, anyway, anywhere.. so it didn't make much difference.

She was a tall, thin woman, a little older than Honey. She never gave a thought to clothes—usually accepting the garments salesladies hung on her, and walking out with them.

Her greatest talents were a superficial sophistication that covered an extremely warm and simple heart. . . and a flair for getting the most possible fun out of life.

Today, however, she was unduly serious.

"Nina, my dear, this is going to have to be one of those little talks that are called (loathsome expression) 'woman to woman.' "

Nina began to feel uneasy, but she took a deep breath and said she was ready.

"It's about our mutual concern:Honey." Now Nina began to grow hot, all over. "Get this clear in your head first, child. I think her marriage is a grand thing; but just at this point I think it needs a little —supervising."

Was this going to be like one of those scenes you see on the stage, with each character knowing exactly what the other means, and yet talking in parables?

"I've noticed a very slight change in Richard lately," Carrie went on, "and I think I know what's the trouble. You can help me nip it in the bud, Nina, if you will."

Oh, it was going to be one of those scenes. So Horseface knew it all, did she? Nina thought it was a miracle that everyone hadn't noticed. . . or maybe they had. Things had reached a stage where it was impossible for Nina not to realize that Richard was tremendously attracted to her. . he made no effort to disguise it, and she supposed that if anything had pulled the wool over people's —Honey's —eyes, it was his very openness.

Some nights when she lay sleepless from thinking about it, she thought that her stepfather himself, must be unaware of his feeling for her and some nights, particularly when she was worn out with conflicting emotions, she thought that he was being diabolically clever. You couldn't pin anything on him; if he took his coffee up to her room in the morning, he announced it beforehand; when he kissed her, in front of Honey; if he was holding her hand when his wife came in, he continued to hold it.

All this could be interpreted in two ways, and Nina loving him, preferred to think that he was not —deliberate. It made him a nicer person. It made her feel like a nicer person . . if anything could, these days.

But Carrie was saying something that startled her.

"Your mother is so completely out of her head about him, that she has reverted to her schooldays. I haven't seen such fawning over a man since I made a fool of myself falling in love with my biology professor. . . I fell out of love with him, incidentally, when he practically drooled at the mouth with delight over a juicy ox eye...but that is neither here nor there, is it?"

But it certainly was. Good old juicy ox eye...Horseface was evidently on the wrong track.

"It's entirely to his credit, of course," Carrie continued, "that Richard is the finished product he is. You and I both know that he must have had a great many women in love with him, Nina, and frankly, I think he's getting a touch fed up with Honey's—adulation.

It began to be funny.

"My thought was, that if you would help me persuade your mother to accompany me on a little trip south, it would give Richard a bit of a breathing spell."

It ceased to be funny—immediately. She said quickly. "I think, Horse—er, Aunt Carrie . . ."

"Go on, say it. Say Horseface . . ."

"I think darling, that you are on the wrong track. I mean, I think you're mistaken. I mean I think everything's just fine."

But Horseface had the bit between her teeth.

"Well, you're crazy if you do," she said, in no uncertain terms; and she said: "A little lemon?" as though it were: "A little arsenic?"

"Aunt Carrie, dear, here's the thing: you only see them at intervals. I'm with them all the time. Don't you really think I'm more in a position to see what's going on, than you?"

Carrie frowned. "Not necessarily. Don't you know the way it is when a person's getting bald? He sees it and tends it every day, and thinks he's getting along fine. It takes an outsider to come along and tell him how much he's really lost."

'I'd Be Lost!'

Mrs. Van Alstyne's mild, humorous face was no longer a friendly, amusing thing, to Nina. It had assumed dragon proportions.

Nina said: "Please don't think me rude, Aunt Carrie, or maybe I am. . . but I do ask you to leave this to me. . . . Not to meddle."

Dragon-face was not in the least put out.

"I've always meddled in Honey's life—for the best, Nina; and I always shall. You simply go away. . . You're less mature than I thought, dear child. Some crupets?"

"No!" Nina was getting excited "How ridiculous for you to say I don't want Honey to go away! Let them both go away, that's a thought. . . . A change for them both. That would fix it."

Carrie sighed.

"This isn't getting us anywhere, baby. I'm not going to abduct your mother, but if I can persuade her to go away with me for a few weeks, I shall certainly do so. I'm sorry we can't see eye to eye about this. Now let's talk about something else." Presently Nina left, and in half an hour she was talking to Honey.

All the way home she had thought: "I'd lose my head, surely, surely." "She can't leave us alone together!" . . .

"Honey, dear, please don't say I said anything about wanting you to go south with her the other day. . . . just you. You wouldn't do it, would you, darling? It would be an awful dirty trick to Richard. Why, you're still a bride!"

She waited in an agony of suspense for her mother's reply.

But Honey was noncommittal.

"Why, I don't know, baby . . . maybe she changed her mind; she hasn't said anything to me yet. We'll see."

The next day, Honey brought up the subject again, herself.

"You know, I'm rather considering that trip idea, Nina. Richard told me last night that he thought I looked a bit peaked." She paused, and then went on, anxiously: "Do you think I look peaked, baby? Do you?"

Nina suddenly imagined that her mother did . . . although it was probably just what Honey was always so passionately anxious to look blooming for Richard.

"Why, I hadn't noticed it, Honey, dear. But I certainly wouldn't leave him, if I did go away for a while. Take him with you! I think he'd have every right to feel hurt. . ."

She simply had to let it go at that.

Tomorrow, Richard and Nina dine alone and then.
